What a Successful Farmer Has to Say About Farm-ing-Recorder's Court-More About the East Tennessee Trouble-Disd - Dots and Dasbes-Personal Faragraphs.

MACON, Ga., July 24 .- [Special.] - After the pencil pusher for THE CONSTITUTION had taken his round this morning, trying to find something that would be of interest to its readers, he happened to come down Second street, and just as he got opposite Williag-ham's warehouse he saw two gentlemen sitting in the rear of the office chatting, and as he passed he happened to think that Mr. B. E. Willingham was one of the gentlemen, and taking into consideration the cool, shady place, he did not hesitate, but stepped in at

As he stepped in he grasped the hand of Mr. B. E. Willingham, and was introduced to the other gentleman, who proved to be one of Dougherty county's largest and most successful planters, Mr. J. E. Crossby.

After being comfortably seated, we naturaily drifted on to the crops and the future outleek for the coming fall, and we obtained some reliable and valuable information from Mr. Crossby.

Your correspondent finding his time was growing short ventured to ask him a few questions.

In answer to how the crops were in Dougherty, he said:
"Well, sir, Dougherty is like every other county I suppose, it has some good crops and some not so good. But will say that in our county where the crops have been manured they are splendid, even better I think than they were last year. Of course where they have not been manured they are poor and could not be expected to be any other way."

"How is your cotton looking?"
"My cotton never looked better. It is much better than last year, being now over waist high."

"How much cotton have you got planted this year?"
"I have about two hundred and fifty acres this year. I have cut my cotton crop down to about half; heretofore I have been planting about five hundred acres. about five hundred acres.

"Do you manure your cotton very heavily?"

"Well, yes, sir, I manure tolerably heavy."

"Do you raise yeur own manure?"

"Yes, sir, I raise nearly all my manure.

That is, compost it myself. I buy cottonseed meal direct from the factory, acid phosphate the same way and my my own manures. I meat direct from the factory, and phosphate the same way, and mix my own manures. I never bether with an inspector, and I generally make a fair cetton crop."

"How do you raise your manures?"

"Well, I have a large shed enclosed for my mules, and then I have a stall for each one. I haul oak leaves and pine-straw into the stalls, and always keep them full, and in this way I raise an abundant amount of manure." raise an abundant amount of manure.

"Do you not haul leaves and straw into your lot, too?"
"No, sir; that is something I do not do. I keep every stick and all litter off my lot. I think the lot ought to be kept clean, as a place for the stock to run and take exercise. I sometimes haul sand in my lot for my stock to rest on."

"How do you distribute your manures? Do you put it in the drill?"

"No, sir; I have me a pair of oxen, and I haul it out into the field and scatter it broadcast, as if I expected to sow grain."

"Yo do this exclusively?"
"Yes, sir, I have tried it every way and find that more benefit can be derived from it in that way than in any other."
"Do you average a bale of cotton on every two acres?"

"Ob, yes; I do much better than that. I generally get a bale of cotton to every acre, from that to an acre and a half."

from that to an acre and a half."

"What do you think about farmers buying all their manures to put under their crops?"

"Well, sir, I think that it takes all the prefits in the fall. I think if our farmers would raise their own manures, that is the larger portion of it, that they would find farming a profitable business; but as long as they depend upon buying everything to run their crops with, I do not think they will find much money in cotton or anything else. I much money in cotton or anything else. I know of a number who do this, however, and keep running their farms."

"Do you think there will be an average crop of cotton made in your section of the country?"

"Yes; I think we will make an average

How about watermelons?" "Oh, we don't fool with them."

The Prisoners Held in Three Thousand Dollar Bonds.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., July 24.—[Special.]—The habeas corpus case was resumed at one and ended at seven o'clock this evening. The prisoners introduced three and the state eight additional addavits. At the conclusion of the testimony the attorneys disagreed badly as to how the argument should be conducted and this developed the fact that the prisoners were variously represented as follows:

A. S. Johnson, for Hudgins; J. B. Conyers, who spoke yesterday, for the Pucketts and Tobe Jackson, and T. Warren Aiken and T. W. Milner for all the prisoners. Mr. Aiken said he would speak for Hudgins only, and Mr. Milner for all the others. The court then decided that Mr. Aiken could open for Hudgins, the state's attorneys to follow and Mr. Aiken to conclude for Hudgins and Mr. Milner to conclude for the other prisoners. When Solicitor Harris began he claimed that the state's attorneys had not been treated fairly. The court then said Mr. Harris could conclude the argument if he desired, but Harris declined to do so. The court decided to admit the prisoners for bail in the sum of three thousand dollars each. Hudgins and Bill Puckett have given bond and the others, it is said, will be out in a few day. No decision of a court was ever received here like this one. It is the talk of the town, and was cision of a court was ever received here like this one. It is the talk of the town, and was variously commented upon. Thus ends the most remarkable judicial proceeding ever held in Eartow county. The grand jury meet next Monday and will take the matter in hard.

SUBJECTS & CONSUMPTION

A Wonderful Story, as told by a Well-Known and Reliable Colored Man.

It is a well-known fact that in the days before the war there was rarely found a can consumption among the negroes of the south, and it was thought by many that they were a liable to this much-dreaded disease. But the past twenty years would seem to prove that it theory was error, as many thousands are now annually carried off by consumption, prove that the African race is just as susceptible to this fatal disease as the Cancassion. But be as it may, a Constitution reporter recently met with a well-known colored porter of a Primain car, who runs from Atlanta to New York. His name is Augustus L. Grand he lives at No. 250 Hayne, street, in this city. "I would be the Constitution," said Grant, "to publish for the benefit of consumptives and for the comfant their friends, how I have been rescued from a consumptive's grave." I know that may people think the colored people do not have consumption, but I know from experience the is a great mistake. Seven years ago I became a subject of this forlorn disease, and was pronounced by my physicians. My lungs became badly affected; my cough was awful, a times almost shaking me to pieces. My general health broke down and so declined that became helpless and reduced in flesh to a shadow. Terrible night sweats; no appetite or is gestion; more and more pain in my lungs. I suffered more and more; my cough became a ceedingly exhaustive, discharging great quantities of puss and consumptive matter. I half the meanwhile the best treatment; some of the best physicians prescribed for me, and beam interested in my case; but after two or three year's treatment, finding that I continued a grow worse, they one by one abandoned the case until at last they were all agreed that it wonly a question of time with me, and the time was thought to be very short. In this case tion, with one foot as it were in the grave, and making my preparations to go through the dark waters of death, one of my physicians mentioned to me a remedy which might be mis as a last resort. His reasoning was that consumpti of it, and my improvement was almost as rapid as it was wonderful. My appetite came we to me, my digestion was good, my strength was rapidly regained, my lungs healed over side my cough left me gradually, and I went to work with a new lease in life. For the last four five months I have not lost a day's wages or felt a symptom of that terrible disease, that brought me so near the brink of the grave. My physician three months ago pronounced scund and well—not a trace of lung trouble. He today, July 16th, made another exambtion, and tells me that my lungs are as sound as anybody's. I feel perfectly well, and I km I am entirely cured, and that I owe my life to the remedy which was prescribed by the payerism for me."

consumption, and the doctors were all agreed in their opinion that I had consumption also had all the distressing symptoms of that terrible disease. I have spent thousands of doltats arrest the march of this disease. I have employed all of the usual methods, not only in my own case, but in the treatment of other members of my family, but temporary relief was a that I obtained. I was unfit for any manual labor for several years. By chance I came in possession of a pamphlet on "Blood and Skin Diseases" from the office of Swift Specific Capany, Atlants, Ga. A friend recommended the use of Swift's Specific, claiming that he here greatly benefitted by its use in some lung troubles. I resolved to try it. About he years ago I commenced to take the S. S. S. according to directions. I found it an invigorating tonic, and have used about 50 bottles. The results are most remarkable. My cough has keen my strength has returned, and I weigh 60 pounds more than I ever did in life. It been three years since I stopped the use of the medicine, but I have had no return of disease, and there are no pains or weakness felt in my lungs. I do the hardest kind of medical work, and feel as well as I ever felt since I was a boy. These, I know, are wonderful statements to make, but I am honest when I say that I owe my existence and health today Swift's Specific. It is the only medicine that brought me any permanent relief. I do not a that Swift's Specific will do this in every case, but most positively affirm that It has done the much for me, and I would be recreant to the duty I owe to suffering humanity if I failed bear this cheerful testimony to the merits of this wonderful medicine. I am well known in the city of Montgomery, and I can refer to the best citizens in the city.

A Few Plain Remarks to the Public.

We do not think there is another preparation which can bring forward such indorsem We do not think there is another preparation which can bring forward such indorsements. We do not claim our remedy to be a specific for all diseases, but we do know it to be a ready for diseases of the blood. It has been established beyond all doubt that scarcely any disease can find lodgement with the blood in good condition. To all these we say: If broken down in health, or your malady can be traced to a bad condition of your blood, take our by cific and you will not be disappointed. Our preparation removes the accumulated poisse ages from the blood, and we boldly assert that ninety per cent of all diseases spring from seconcepting influence of this, "the fountain of life," and we further assert that the proper variable remedies are cures for blood diseases.

We would again call your attention to the fact that in almost every instance where Smill Specific was resorted to, it was after all remedies of the scientist had failed. How much now potent the Specific would be could man be induced to avail himself of its powers before "enty other treatment had been tried in vair," and the system impregnated with mineral poisses.

such as were reserved for special votes) were agreed to. The first amendments reserved were those in reference to the issue of silver certificates.

Mr. Beck demanded the yeas and nays on the amendment to strike out the words, "On all surplus silver dollars now in the treasury in payment of appropriations made in this bill and other expenditures or obligations of the government" Mr. Sherman appealed to Mr. Beck not to attempt to force such legislation on the bill at this stage of the session. He believed it to be a breach of public faith, contrary to the pledged faith of the nation. Discussion of it at this time seemed to be a mockery of legislation. Its passage would alarm the public credit and do much to bring about a condition of affairs which everybody would regret, in which gold would disappear from circulation, and be either hoarded or exported. He had not objected to (on the contrary, he ravored) the issue of one, two and five dollar certificates, instead of larger denominations, as silver was intended for the minor wants of trade. This legislation proposed a revolution in currency which would endanger the whole foundation of the financial system of the country. It had no place in the bill, being a change of existing law, and not being reported by the committee on appropriations or the committee on finance.

He trusted that the gentleman from Kentucky would have reasonable deference for the opinion of others who had studied the question as much as he (Beck) had. It seemed to him an unpardonable piece of legislation at this time.

Beck replied to Mr. Sherman, stating that the proposition had come from the house of representatives, and was in the bill. It had been distributed among the senators for a month, and had been before the committee on finance, At the suggestion of the senator from Ohio, himself, and not acted upon. He declared that the silver coinage of the country had never had a more inveterate enemy than the senator from Ohio, himself, and not acted upon. He declared that the silver coinage of

The House Discusses the Bill for That Purpose.
Washington, July 24.—Immediately after the reading of the journal, the house went into committee of the whole (Mr. Crisp in the chair) on the bill for increase of navy. After speeches by Messrs, Herbert, Boutelle and others, the original bill was read by sections for

mr. Ballentine moved an amendment sppropriating $1,200,000 for the construction of a cruiser of between 2,500 and 3,500 tons displacement with a speed of not less than twenty knots, upon plans, designs and specifications furnished by Charles D. Landberg, of New York. Adopted—37—36.

This amendment was intended as a substitute for the clause providing for the construction of three protected double-bottomed cruisers.

On motion of Mr. Buck, an amendment was adopted, inserting in bill provision contained in the substitute for a dynamite gun cruiser.

Mr. Boutelle moved to strike out clause which authorizes the secretary of the navy, in certain emergencies, to import armor for new cruisers. Agreed to—101 to 67.

Mr. Brady, of Virginia, offered an amendment providing that one of the new vessels shall be built at the Norfolk navy yard. He was afraid that unless such a provision were inserted in the bill, the presioent and the secretary of the navy would discriminate against the Nerfolk yard. Rejected.

The committee then rose and reported the bill Mr. Ballentine moved an amendment appropria-

Mr. Ballentine's amendment was rejected without division. The other amendments were voted upon in bulk,

Mr. Herbert then offered as a substitute for the bill the proposition agreed to by the committee on naval affairs, which has been published. It was agreed to—yeas 117; nays 104—and the bill as so amended was passed.

The house, then, at 5 o'clock, took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be for the consideration of land forfeiture bills.

At the evening session the bill declaring the forfeiture of lands granted to the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg railroad company was called up. Mr. Laffoon made a speech in support of the bill, which he said restored to the public domain between three and four hundred thousand acres of land. The bill passed.

The remainder of the evening session was consumed in an effectual effort to secure a quorum to act upon the Mobile and Girard land forfeiture bill, and then, at 10:50, the house adjourned.

A Republican Committee Meet to Consider Mr. Morrison's Measure.

WASHINGTON, July 24 .- The select committee of thirteen republican senators held a caucus this morning in the room of the finance committee to further consider the surplus resolution. No determination as to the form lin which the resolution shall be reported, if reported at all, was reached. The sub committee appointed at the meeting at the Sherman house, is said to have reported a subthe sherman house, issued to have reported a substitute for the resolution, fixing the maximum surplus to be retained at $125,000,000 and the minimum at $110,000,000, but leaving the amount within those limits to the discretion of the secretary of the treasury. It is probable that some definite action will be reached next Tuesday.

STATE OF AFFAIRS IN THE UNFOR-TUNATE REPUBLIC

The Course Leading to the Rebellion Against the Government-The Revolutionists to be shot When Captured-The Trouble at Pass del Norte-Mexican Troops Missing.

ST. LOUIS, July 24. - The following interesting facts of the situation in northern Mexico comes from the New Laredo correspondent of the Globe-Democrat and gives a more connected statement of affairs than has been already published:

"It is stated on good authority that the city of Lianes, of about 10,000 inhabitants. has pronounced against the federal government. As this city is in the interior and some 200 miles from the border, it is evident that the feeling of rebellion and discontent is rapidly permeating the whole of northern Mexico. The situation in Tamaulipas is identical with that of Nuevo Leon last September. General Cullars, governor of the state, has asked and received permission to absent himself from the capital and his whereabouts are not known at present. It is said by some that he is in the city of Mexico, and his return looked for in the course of two weeks. It will be remembered that Garcia, governor of Nuevo Leon, was ordered to the city of Mexico before the uprising in that state last winter, and as soon as the secretary of state, Sepulveda, took the gubernatorial chair, the discontents received their cue from the federal government and rebelled. Now in Tamaulipas, the chief justice of the state is acting as governor, and all the towns of note are pronouncing against the federal government, which, however, has more to contend with in this state than any other on the border. Their appointment of Cuellar, as chief of the south appointment of Cuellar, as chief of the south military division, comprising the state of Tamaulipas, is meeting with opposition from the present commander. General Gomez and Colonel Villaireul, it is said, will join the insurgent trops before they will allow themselves to be deposed. The uprising of Augua La Guna has given the federal government some uneasiness and they have ordered General Naranjo, of Nuevo Leon, to report at the city of Mexico, which command he has not seen fit to comply with, and he considers such a movement would be detrimental to his freedom and perhaps his health. The movement to depose the civil governmental to his freedom and perhaps his health. The movement to depose the civil government of Tamaulipas was first received by the federal government. The understanding between Governor Cuellars and officials at the city of Mexico provided for the appointing of the governor to a high military position, and no provisions were made for any trouble in Nuevo Leon, but now with a good sized rebellion in both states and much discontent among the federal troops on the border, the trouble is assuming a mixed complexion.

It is reported that on the first of August all important cities in the states Tamaulipas and in with important cities in the states Tamaulipas and Nuevo Leon will pronounce. It now leaks out that General Casos, of Agna Tagua, was in out that General Casos, of Agna Tagua, was in Laredo last Saturday in disguise, with a few of his most trusted followers, and purchased a large amount of arms ammunition with which to prosecute his individual revolution to the fullest possible extent. He was defeated in a slight engagement in the mountains near Candela, but lost but two of his men, and escaped with the balance of his command.

then Sufficient to quell any revolution.

St. Louis, July 24.—The Matamoras correspondent of the Globe Democrat, telegraphs as follows concerning affairs in Tanantipas: Federal troops are now in strong force up the country and have captured four more prisoners. It is thought a majority of the revolutionists have found the frontier too hot for them and have broken through the troops and retreated to the mountains in the interior. The move was not well planned and upriver rancheros, even those adverse to the cultare becams convinced it had no political importance and was only being used by lot of border bandits to plunder ranches and steal horses. They therefore organized strong parties for their defense and to aid the troops. It is said that General Gomez has severely censured Colonel Cavazos for taking any prisoners and for not treating as bandits those captured, and, under the provisions of a new law, immediately excuting them. The movement in the state of Nuevo Leon is similarly looked on. Soldano, the would-be revolutionist, recently captured, was all fixed for a horse stealing expedition and was riding an animal stolen from a Texas ranche.

A LITTLE WAR CLOUD.

A LITTLE WAR CLOUD. Excitement on the Texas Border Over the Insult From Mexico.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Special dispatches from El Paso and Fort Worth, Texas, published here this morning, indicate that great excitement prevails throughout Texas over the detention of Editor Cutting by the authorities of the state of Chihuahua, after repeated demands for his release by the American consul. Newspapers of the section assert that the men of Texas are ready for war, and that it needs but a word to start one.

it needs but a word to start one.

A special from San Antonio says that there is considerable bustle about military head-quarters there, and, although officers are reticent, report is current that General Stanly has received orders to have all his available force in readiness to move at a moment's notice to El Paso whenever the order therefor is received. The gathering of the Mexican war cloud is watched there with a great deal of interest, and but the one opinion preyails that the Mexican government should be taught that it cannot treat American citizens with that the Mexican government should be taught that it cannot treat American citizens with indignity.

Paso Del Norte is still full of Mexican soldiers, although the heavy rein forcements announced on their way from Chihuahua had not arrived last night. The state department at Washington is kept fully advised of all military movements taken by the Mexicans. Medina, who was arrested by the Mexicans. Medina, who was arrested by the Mexican police for interfering with and abusing Consul Brigham has been placed in cell No. 7, while Editor Cutting is confined in cell No. 6, adjoining. Cutting was very much disappointed that Medina was not put in the same cell with him, and tried to bribe the jailer to put them together, but without avail, as that functionary apprehended violence in case he should comply. The Mexican authorities are very much put out about the bad break that Medina made in assaulting the American consul and express regret that he has thus prejudiced their case. Senor Manuel Rincen, private secretary of the governor of Chihuahua, called on Consul Brigham yesterday, and assured him of his regard and friendship. He said that troops had been sent to Paso del Norte merely as a precautionary measure, and that if the excitement did not increase, no more would be sent. He is astonished that Cutting had refused to accept bail when it was offered, as that would not have prejudiced his case at all. Consul Brigham replied that Cutting had refused to accept bail when it was offered, as that would not have prejudiced his case at all. Consul Brigham preplied that Cutting had done right, as the case was beyond reach of petty courts and states now, and had become a question between thetwo nations. There is evidently a hitch in negotiations on the part of the Mexicans somewhere, as there has been no further developments. Yesterday Consul Brigham modified his previons report and said Medina did not abuse him, but his secretary only.

THE ANARCHIST TRIALS.

A Pinkerton Detective on the Stand-Sensa-

CHICAGO, July 24.—In the anarchist trials, today, James G. Miller, attorney, knew Fielden. He saw him on the lake front last fall and heard he saw him on the lake front last fall and heard him address the crowd there. In the course of his speech, Fielden said workingmen were justified in obtaining that which was theirs, and which was withheld from them by the rich. He said equali-ty of possession was what was wanted, and that to obtain this laborers were justified in using force. There were two or three hundred persons in the crowd.

obtain this laborers were justified in using force. There were two or three hundred persons in the crowd.

Wim. N. Knox. reporter, was the next witness. He saw Spies, Schwab and Fielden on the night of May 5th, interviewed Spies at police headquarters that evening in the presence, part of the time, of Inspector Bonfield. Spies, after recounting his personal history, asked witness what the coroner's jury had done. He was told that they held him without ball on the charge of murder. Spies expressed surprise at this, saying he did not know how they could do that. He said he didn't want to go to Haymarket. He lold it to Schwab and that finally, when he got there he made a quieting speech. He said he didnot know where the 'Revenge' circular was printed. As soon as the explosion took place he went to Zeph's hall and there net Mrs. Parsons, who was waiting for her husband. Spies said he was standing on the wagon a moment or two before the bomb went off. Some one, he hooght it was Wm. Lichener, told him to get off the wastn. Spies also said that he had some bombs and a quantity of fuse in his office, but he kept them there solely to show them to reporters. Knox testified that Spies declared in their interview that he had not intended going to the Haymarket meeting, and only did so as an attenthought. Spies claimed to have been surprised when the bomb was thrown. Lawrence Hardy, a newspaper reporter, described the meeting held at Zeph's hall on March 12th, when Fielden spoke and advised those present to marchl up Black road and take possession of McCormick's factory, which rightfully belonged to the working men, Those present were mainly McCormick strikers. Parsons expressed the same sentiment, while Spies spoke in German.

Intense excitement was caused this afternoon by a report that the innermost councils of anarchists were to be revealed through some mysterious agency. Just what methods that had been employed was not known, but it was rumored that six of Phikerton's best men had been for months in active communicatio

Attention was given as determined the testimony.

A few moments had previously been consumed in taking the evidence of R. S. Barnum, August Goerke and Richard Reichel.

Goerke and Reichel, both employes of the Arbeiter-Zeitung, testified in effect that Spies wrote the "Revenge" circular and caused it to be printed. This circular was a call for the meeting in Haymarket. wrote the "Revenge" circular and caused it to be printed. This circular was a call for the meeting in Haymarket.

A sensation was here created among the anarchists by the appearance in the witness box of Andrew C. Johnson, one of the Pinkerton. detectives. Spies regarded him with expressions of surprise and alarm, and immediately began an earnest conversation with his attorney.

Witness began his testimony by stating that he was a member of the American branch of the International Workingmen's union, and belonged to the armed sections of that force.

Continuing, Detective Johnson said that he had joined this organization for the purpose of finding out their objects, and taking secret notes of their proceedings. He attended all the meetings from February 22, 1885, to January, 1886, He took proports in writing of the meetings and turned them over to W. A. Pinkerton, superintendent of detective agency.

to w. A. Fineeron, superintendent of detective agency.

Witness stated that he had since learned that Pinkerton men had been detailed in the same service. His own attendance at meetings of the armed section was confined to two occasions. At the meeting of the American group, — debate of which was given by witness, Fischer, one of the defendants, introduced a resolution denouncing a man named Wight, who, it was alleged, had escaped punishment due some crime, by means of caped punishment due some crime, by means of his high standing in society.

Spies opposed the resolution, saying, "What is the use of passing resolutions? Now is the opportunity for some of our young men to go and shoot Wight."

At another meeting, April 1, Spies in a similar At another meeting, April 1, Spies in a similar manner advised the shooting of a police sergeaut who had been tried upon a serious charge, but acquitted on testimony of brother officers.

As a further sample of how leading anarchists were continually selzing upon every incident engaging the public attention and urging subordinate members to make it the occasion of some startling act of violence, witness related that Fielden referring to the dedication of the new_board of trade_said at one of the meetings.

the dedication of the new board of trade said at one of the meetings:

"Whats splendid opportunity there would be for some bold feilow next. Tuesday evening to make the capitalists tremble by blowing up the building and all there is in it."

Witness then took each separate meeting of the American group of the International Workingpeople's association, between February 22, 1885, and January 22, 1886, mentioned the date specifically and proceeded by reference to memoranda to detail exactly when, where, how often and under what circumstances each of the defendants had advoted attacks of militia and police, and particularly the use of dynamite. Incidentally Detective Johnson told how Parsons, in a certatn speech, had said:

"I lived on snowballs all last winter, but, by ted attacks of militis and potice, and particularly the use of dynamite. Incidentally Detective Johnson told how Parsons, in a certain speech, had said:

"I lived on snowballs all last winter, but, by G—d, I won't do it this winter."

At the narration of this sally of her husband, Mrs. Parsons laughed till the tears ran down her cheeks, and then ostentatiously wiped her eyes with a flaming scarlet handserchief. The alarst that had manifested itself among the eight defendants, upon the first appearance of the detective on the stand had by this time somewhat subsided. It had entirely disappeared at the end of the line at which Lingg and Engel, who know little English, were stationed. Beyond the latter—a grizzly looking anarchist, sat his pretty I7-year old daughter. She leaned her elbow on one arm of her father's chair, upon the opposite arm of which rested the elbow of youthful, good-looking Louis lingg. The old man sat bolt upright between them apparently lost in thought, while the two young people chatted and laughed to their heart's content. Even Lingg, however, grew serious again when the detective began to recount his experience at the meeting of the armed section held August 24, at 54 West Lake street. Twenty or twenty five men were present, and the two women. A man armed with a long sword, dressed in a blue blouse and wearing a slouched hat, ordered all present to fall in. Whoever wished to join the company were told to step to the trout. The detective was for a moment at a loss how to proceed. To his great relief, Parsons volunteered to be his sponsor. At this evidence, every man aming the defendants turned inquiringly toward Parsons. That individual was evidently non-plussed. The company, the witness continued, drilled for three quarters of an hour, in the regular manual. A man then came with two tin boxes which he placed on a table. The drill master invited all to examine the latest improved dynamite bombs. They were carefully inspected by all present. At a subsequent meeting of this portion of the arm

ACROSS THE CHASM. PROFESSOR LEON PERFORMS HIS

TERRIBLE FEAT.

TALLULAH FALLS, Ga., July 24.-[Special.]-Professor Leon has crossed the chasm, and won the greatest feat of rope walking on

For over a week expectancy has run high here over the coming event. The arrival of Professor Leon with his 20,000 pounds of rope, and the work of stretching the cord across the immense fissure in the rocks of old Rabun raised this expectancy to the fever of excite-ment. Early this morning a large party of excursionists came in from Athens and points along the Northeastern road. This was fol lowed later in the day by a double section of trains from Atlanta. In all, over 2,500 excursionists were upon the grounds, besides about 1,000 people of the vicinity. The directors of the Atlanta Young Men's Eibrary association at once went to work and put matters in shape for a pleasant day's entertainment. THE SCENE OF INTEREST.

The river at this point runs east and west. Along either side rise precipitous mountains of gray granite, bearing the touch of extreme antiquity. On the Rabun county side, below the falls, is Point Inspiration. The rocks are steep and jagged, blackened with the drippings the falls, is Point Inspiration. The rocks are steep and jagged, blackened with the drippings of centuries, and frowning fiercely under the strong light of the noenday sun. Behind this point the country continues to rise, fringed with stinty foliage, but rich in shurb and flowers. Across from it, on the Habersham county side, lies Lover's Leap, a huge platform of rock, which bulges out from a bank of fifteen hundred feet precipitous ascent. In the huge gorge between these points the huge gorge between these points the huge gorge between these points the Rabun side the sun was beating its scorching rays, while on the Habersham side the mountain shadow had already begun to throw itself out. It is said that this spot was the scene of a singular instance of love. An Indian maiden, in search of her lover, and pursued by her friends, fled along and down the steep hillside till, standing upon the inviting ledge, she looked across and saw the rocks beyond in their forbidding colors. Looking toward the west she saw the beautiful cascades. Nearer came the pursuers. Giving them one reproachful look, she gazed into the frightful depths below. An instant more and she had leaped into midair, then the splash into the water, rendered inaudible by the roaring of the falls, and the irate chief stood upon the ledge. But too late! The dible by the roaring of the falls, and the irate chief stood upon the ledge. But too late! The spirit of the maiden of the forest had sought the sylvan fields of bliss, and was no longer in the sylvan fields of bliss, and was no longer in fear of pursuers.

THE BOPE ACROSS.

This was the scene chosen by Professor Leon for his great walk. Firmly stretched from Point Inspiration to Lover's Leap was the fateful rope, securely guyed by fourteen ropes on either side, and stretching out in every direction. The end at Lover's Leap was fastened at a point 1,000 feet above the chasm below. It sagged in one-third of the distance, fully flity feet. Thence to Point Inspiration, it run a straight line. On the latter point was gathered about five hundred people. The scene on the Lover's Leap side was one to be remembered. A grand stand had been erect scene on the Lovers Leap side was one to be remembered. A grand stand had been erected, which was nothing more or less than steps made in the hillsides into which boards wore fixed, so as to furnish seats. Not less than twenty-five hundred thus clung to their places and watched for the opening of the day's exhibition.

PROFESSOR LEON APPEARS.
At 4:30 Professor Leon and party arrived at Point inspiration, and began preparing for the work ahead. The rope was found to have slackened a great deal, which necessitated considerable delay, Impatience was manifested by many, it being freely asserted that Leon would never dare the perilous feat.

But he did!

At 5:20, with his balancing pole in hand, he stepped upon the rope. A moment later 750 feet of space was between him and the earth below. Deep silence stole over the thousands, and hearts palpitated. With carefully selected step the walker passed twenty feet out and was at home in the air. To people along the water's edge he appeared to be an atom. He was walking at the rate of thirty-three steps to the minut; until about one quarter of the distance was covered.

Then the rope made a fearful swag, describing a circle of not less than ten feet. To see the walker balance himself, first on one see the walker balance himself, first on one side and then on the other, was marvelous. It was evident that something was wrong, and eyes were closed lest Leon should go plunging down into the depths below. For one minute he walked with slackened pace, making only sixteen steps, then with a quick movement, he fell upon the rope and was seated, but hundreds feared that he was gone on a longer journey. He had been eight minseated, but hundreds feared that he was gone on a longer journey. He had been eight minutes on the rope. He called out loudly for the tightning of the guy lines. This consumed nine minutes. In an instant, amid the clapping of hands and inspiring strains from the band, Leon was on his feet again, and held his belowing the tightly.

the band, Leon was on his feet again, and held his balancing pole tightly.

AN INTERESTING BY PLAY.

Among the lookers-on in the Lovers' Leap assemblage was a neat little lady dressed in black. Her face was wrought up to the highest degree of excitement. She looked long and inquiringly at the approaching figure, trembling at signs of danger, and looking relieved at signs of success. By her side stood a little girl, four years old, dressed in white. The little one would hold out her arms in imitation of holding the balancing pole, and appeared, by this mute language, to inspire the walker. These were the wife and child of Professor Leon.

At twenty five minutes to six, Leon was firmly on his way, stepping thirty three paces to the minute for three minutes, when the frmly on his way, stepping thirty-three paces to the minute for three minutes, when the rope again began its mad pranks. By this time, Leon, who appeared to the loosers on from Lover's Leap to be but a speck when he started from Point Inspiration, became visible in full form. The careful step, the balancing of the body, the working of the muscles, told too well the terrible strain under which the walker was laboring. There was a sigh of relief when he reached his last quarter, in which he had to make an ascent of fifty feet. With this change of position Leon increased his steps to forty to the minute. The people, as Leon approached the edge of Lover's Leap, stood up in excitement. The walker's hands trembled as he grasped the pole, his neck and face were livid, but his legs were firm as pillars of steel. One more step, at fifteen minutes to six, and the rock of Lovers' Leap was but five feet below his fest. Another second and he dropped his pole, when he was supported on either side by Judge Van Epps and Mr. P. J. Moran, who led him up the steep. The wife rushed into his arms. The little girl leaped to his breast. A moment more and the walker was in charge of Dr. K. C. Divine, who was astonished at what he found. When Leon started out his pulse was steady, at 90, while standing, and 75 when aitting, with temperature 99? When the feat was over his pulse was, sitting, 115, and standing 125, full volume, with a temperature of 99. This wonderful record will be appreciated by the medical fraternity. In ten minutes, Leon was himself again.

THE PEOPLE SATISFIED.

As Leon wished to perform the rest of his minutes, Leon was himself again.

THE PEOPLE SATISFIED.

As Leon wished to perform the rest of his feat, the people shouted:

"That's enough; we don't want any more!"
But raising his powerful form erect, he said:

"Gentlemen and ladies, please be kind enough to let me complete my performance. I am simply tired and am anxious to finish."

They would not hear of it, and doffing his hat Mr. Van Epps commanded the crowds' attention:

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "our judgment is that it is not proper to permit Mr. Leon to w.ik any more over the falls. He is now slightly exhausted and tired from the

He then spoke of Mr. Leon as not only a devoted husband and father, but also a perfect, Christian gentleman in every respect; never having taken a drop of intoxicating liquors and never having sworn an oath in his

The figures by actual measurement are as follows: The repe from the point where Lead atepped on it to the point where he stepped off was 1,40 feet. When he stepped out at Point Inspiration 750 feet of space lay beneath him. Toward the center this was increased to about 1,000, and at Lover's Leap, it was 650 feet below. It took him just twenty-five minutes to cross the chasm, from which pine minutes should be subtracted for time lost in fixing the guy ropes. This makes which nine minutes should be subtracted for time lost in fixing the guy ropes. This makes not only the longest walk, but the highest walk ever accomplished by numan being.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Bun Wylie, of Atlanta, and Charles Coates, of Baltimore, were, on Friday, drawn by tackle into the middle of the chasm on the rope. Their experience was thrilling.

The balancing pole used by Professor Leon was forty-six pounds in weight.

The falls are crowded with visitors from all parts, two of the most charming and entertaining being Mrs. Seixas, of New Orleaus, and Mrs. Mims, of Atlanta.

SALISBURY AT OSBORNE.

SALISBURY AT OSBORNE. Lord Hartington Refuses to Join the Conservatives. LONDON, July 24 -Lord Randolph Churchill has arrived in London. Lord Salisbury called upon Lord Hartington and held an hour's conference with him. Churchill subsequently held a conference with Salisbury At 11 o'clock this morning Lord Salisbury started for Osborne to receive the queen's command to form a government.

ARCHBISHOP CROKE'S LETTER. He Does Not Feel Despondent About Home Rule.

LONDON, July 24.-Most Rev. . Thos. W.

London, July 24.—Most Rev. Thos. W. Croke, archbishop of Cashel, has sent to the treasurer of the National League parliamentary fund, a remittance containing contributions from nearly all priests of his diocese. In the letter bearing the remittance, the archbishop says:

"There is no ground for despondency. We have the greatest political strategist at our head. The courage of our race was never higher nor more hopeful. The sympathy of the whole civilized world is with us. We have a compact party of 300, members in the house of commons. Nearly a mitlion and a half of Englishmen voted for restoring our country's rights."

"CLAM JUICE." A New Article on Bill of Fare for the Boys -Next Morning After a Spree. NEW YORK, July 24 .- [Special.] -A fashion. able hotel, in an uptown region where the facili-ties for obtaining an enlargement of the head are more ample, probably, than anywhere else in the city, has given a permanent place in its bill of fare to boiled clam juice. The secret of the pocity, has given a permanent place in its bill of fare to boiled clam juice. The secret of the potency of this preparation, which is simply what its name calls it—the juice of the clam boiled until moderately thick—has long been known, it is said, in London swelldom, but here it is comparatively new. It is the only thing in the world that will safely, surely and quietly restore the normal equilibrum of a system upset by over much of a good time with the boys. It is pleasant to take, perfectly harmless and never fails, even in the most hardened case. It has none of the delecterious after effects of bromide and the other drugs usually applied as nerre-soothers and constitution-bracers. Another form of the same thing is the clam cocktall, and this also is dispensed at the Mount bar. There is only one objection to clam juice—that is, the peculiar smile of the waiter that always goes with it. Nobody ever orders boiled clam juice but a man who needs it, and a man who needs clam juice is in a condition to be irritated by a knowing grin on a waiter's face. If the clam juice botel can only arrange to have the stuff served by cast fron waiters the demand for it is bound to be immense.

PRE-EMPTION LAWS. The Conferees on the Repeal Bill Disa-WASHINGTON, July 24.-The conferees on the bill to repeal the pre-emption, timber culture and desert land laws, have not yet been able to reach an agreement. The conferees on the part of the house have made a protosition looking to a compromise, which is now under consideration by the senate conferees. The proposition is that the house shall validate all entries of lands where actual bona fide settlers are in possession, either as entry men or as assignees, and that other entries which would be affected by the passage of the bill, shall be confirmed or rejected by the lightphication to them of the practice that prevailed in least office at the last severe made. The last saving course to the proposition was added to the character of the proposition of the law by the proposition by the propo

A Feport From Secretary Bayard in Regard to the Matter. WASHINGTON, July 24.—The president today WASHINGTON, July 24.—The president today transmitted to the senate a report from Secretary Bayard, made in compliance with the senate resotion respecting the seizure of American fishing vessels. The secretary says the pending correspondence, which, it is believed, must be soon terminated in an amicable settlement, mutually, just and honorable, and therefore satisfactory to both countries and their inhabitants, he is unable to recommend the president to communicate its contents in its present incomplete status, believing that to do so would be compatible with public interests as connected with the transactions referred to.

Complete and fully equiped cotton factory, together with nearly a mile of the finest water power on the Chattahoochee river, just above the city of Columbus.

CTATE OF GEORGIA, MUSCOGEE COUNTY—By Virtue of the power vested in us under the terms and conditions of a certain deed of trust executed to the undersigned J. Rhodes Browne and A. Iliges, trustees, by the Columbus manufacturing company of Muscogee country, state of Georgia. Night the power vested in us under the terms and conditions of a certain deed of trust executed to the undersigned J. Rhodes Browne and A. Illges, trustees, by the Columbus manufacturing company, of Muscogee county, state of Georgia, dated March I, 1881, whereby the said corporation conveyed to us all the property, real and personal, hereinafter described. In trust, to secure the payment of its certain issue of bonds and the interest coupons thereof as in said trust deed specified and enumerated (all of which appears duly of record in Mortgage Deed Book "A'," folios 367 to 373, March 5, 1884, in the clerk's office of superior court Muscogee county, Georgia and in Record Deeds, volume O O, pages 81 to 88 inclusive, March 22, 1884, office of the probate court in the county of Lee, state of Alabama, and in conformity with the directions and terms prescribed in the resolutions passed by the holders of said bonds, on April 24, 1886, under the authority conterred by said deed of trust.

We will sell in the city Columbus, Muscogee county, Georgia, on the 3d day of August, 1886, between the legal hours of sale, in front of the aution house of F. M. Knowles & Co., on the northwest corner of Broad street and Tenth (formerly Crawford street,) (being the usual place for sheriff's sales in said city of Columbus at public outcry, to the highest bidder. for cash, the following described property of the Columbus approach of land situated, lying and being, as follows: Fractional section number twenty-six (26) and the north half of fractional section number thirty-five (35), both in fractional township number eighteen (18), range number thirty (30) in formerly Russell now Lee county, state of Alabama. Also the following lots of lands lying and being in the eight district of Muscogee county, Alabama. containing eight hundred and thirty (830) acres more or less.

Also, all of the said Columbus manufacturing company's buildings on said land in Muscogee and the of Georgia, and together with said lands in described prometry in excell good work. Present capacity 7,500 yards a day of heavy sheetings and shirtings, three yards to the dound.

The operatives' houses and improvements generally in excellent condition, labor abundant, lands elevated and location of property unsurpassed for heafth, convenience and economical production—free from the burden of municipal taxes paid by all the other Columbus mills, yet within three miles of the city of Columbus and three quarters of a mile of Columbus and Rome railroad. The water power is the finest in the south, controlling and embracing the whole bed of the Chattahoochee river for the distance of about one mile along the lands of the company, said lands extending along the banks upon the Georgia and Alabama sides of the river. Only a small bortion of the water power is required and utilized in running the present mill and the natural falls in the river render but a simple inexpensive dam of logs and plank necessary. This magnificent water power is easily controlled and has a fall of torty-two and a haif (42) feet within three quarters (3) of a mile. With a comparatively small expenditure upon a new dam, 125,000 (one hundred and twenty-live thousand) spindles with looms in proportion can be driven by this water power. Capital for the erection of additional mills and utilization of the immense power now wasted, is all that is needed to make this property the site of a presperous and populous manufacturing village. The personal inspection of capitalists is invited. Full and satisfactory details will be furnished on application.

NEW YORK, July 24 .- [Special.] -The actor fill fairly be pulled to pieces or entertained to death next season between all the clubs that will offer him their hospitalities. The Lotos was started years ago for the purpose of entertaining distinguished actors and then getting them to recite for the edification of the imited membership. But the business ele-ment that was attracted to the Lotos by these enterts inments in due time crowded out the sctors by making the expenses too heavy for them; and then the Arcadian was provided, and for a time, as long as the organizers were in control, it was the rallying point of the rominent American and visiting actors. The amalgamation of the Arcadian and the Palette resulted in a hybrid concern, which slowly but surely drifted into bankruptcy, leaving to the Lotos the care of the visiting and the prominent American actor. The Lotos, however, since its removal from its cozy and unpretentious birthplace on Irving place, adjoining the Academy of music, to its present palatlal quarters on Fifth avenue, opposite the dignified and haughty Union, was too expensive and aristocratic for the average actor, and a new club, especially for them, called the Lambe, was organized by a coterie of the admirers of the late Henry J. Montague, who had been in the habit of assembling every fortnight at a supper. The Lambs admitted actors free of initiation if they would pay their dues—and recite for them whenever their dues—and recite for them whenever wanted at their monthly dinner—and for a time this club became the headquarters for the actors, especially those from England, Mr. Lester Wallack being the Shepherd, Then the Washington club, which is a mutual admiration coterie, founded by ex-Congressman Roberts, decided to admit actors free gratis for nothing, in order to obtain their services at their semi-monthly reunions. The actors. at their semi-monthly reunions. The actors, however, have never taken kindly or numerously to the Washington, and it is whispered that whenever Burbank, Wilder or Frank Lincoln appear there they are always handed a check the same as at the Harmonie club or anywhere they are regularly engaged to entertain. It will be nightly witnessed that there is a great competition between the various clubs for the company of the actors; there is since the New York Yacht club, the Blossom club and the Athletic adopted the plan originated by the Lotos of these musical and dramatic entertainments. With the actor and dramstic entertainments. With the actor it is literally a case of "no song, no supper," for he is invited to contribute to the entertainment by a song and recitation, and if he does not comply it is needless to add he is not invited again. In London the actors are paid to attend private social gatherings, but there is something in the air of this glorious want to the prevent this recoil my terring.

country that prevents this social mustering of professional ability, and the only chance of seeing an actor in private, consequently outside of his own social circle, is one of the clubs that give these entertainments and secure his attendance. The Lambs, by keeping an actor at their head, can always rely on a limited following; the Lotes has concluded to admit actors at half rates, while the Yacht club and Athletic freev extended courtesies to them. Now comes the announcement of the organization of two actors' clubs—the Mohican, of which Mr. Rudolph Aronson, manager of the Casino, is president, and another not yet named, of which Mr. Daniel Frohman, manager of the Lyctum theater, will be president. Dixey, who is a great favorite in the Lambs and a member of the Lotos also as an enber of the Lotos also, is an enthusiastic Mohican, while Mackay, the comedian, is in the board of trustees. Who the lion of the new club will be has not yet appeared, though an active canvass is being made by the resident professionals to secure members. It is not likely, however, that the two new associations will amount to much more than limitad mutual admiration societies of their offi-cers, and that the actors will continue to be caught by the epicurian suppers of the Lotos, the Yacht of the Lambs. The healthy financial condition and prosperity of the Lotos will probably long bring that institution to the fore with its grand entertainments. JOHN D'ARME.

The Manufacture of Comic Opera. NEW YORK, July 24 .- [Special.]-Comic opera manufacture is repousse work. Last winter it was fashionable to pound brass. All the girls had little hammers and tinkered. You could hear the jingle in any well-regulated household. It was repousse. Now all the museums are doing it. Clink, clink, goes the hammer of Solomou, up in his flat. He is welding and soldering a new comic opera. He and Hoyt forge out a pattern, then they call Lillian Russell in, and she applies the little hammer of her voice to it, and to pounding and tinkering they beat out the "Maid and the Moonshiners." If you stand in front of Steinway hall some clear morning when the windows are open you will hear the hammers going all over the building." Every room has

But there is a shadow of disaster looming up on the comic opera horizon. It is the managerial opposition to the lithograph. Without a colored lithograph comic opera would totter on its throne, and the lithograph would totter on its throne, and the lithograph must go. You may pound opera as much as you please, but it is no good unless you paint it. You couldn't get pretty girls to sing in it if they were not lithographed. It is the photographer and the lithographer who seduce innocence and beauty into the chorus and ballet. No house is safe against the temptations of the stars if you let a man in with tions of the stage if you let a man in with a colored poster. All he has to say to the pride of the family is, "This style, my dear, for $12 a week," and she abandons home, father and worker.

Next fall there will be a burst of comic opera. Several twiddling composers, having secured girls enough and posters enough, made small fortunes last season by setting rot to rhyme and calling madness music. This season there will be a double number. The simple recipe given by Boucicault for a comic opera was "gawdy and bawdy." The composer of the "Little Tycoon" tried it, and made money. The Casino has paid off its mortgage with pretty girls. McCaull defies modesty and maternity alike, with imported wizgle and maternity alike, with imported wiggle and jigs and costumes.

Somebody asked Lillian Russell how she Somebody asked Lillian Russell how she learned so many operas. She looked as innocent as a snowdrop. "Why. there's no trouble after you've learned the first one," said she. What a confession! They've been doing the same opera at the Casino for years. They only change the girls and the topical song.

You would be astonished at the difference between the man who has written a play and the man who has written a comic opera. One the man who has written a play and the man who has written a comic opera. One comes down Broadway skulking. The mark of Cain is on his brow. He avoids the light. He is a pariah. The ignommy of his life clings to him. He is crushed, despised, hun-pry. This is the man who has written a play. The other fellow—I don't care whether you call him Hoyt or Solomon or Reanfield— The other fellow—I don't care whether you call him Hoyt, or Solomon or Rosenfield—comes down in a dog cart with outriders. He wears a purple necktie and fine linen. He has a tiger. He acknowledges the calutations of the rich and influential with easy nonchalance. The girls in the cheap stores throw kiases at him and would like to hold his horses. He buys a cottage at Long Branch. He is interviewed in the penny papers. He makes speeches at the fund dinners. He is acquainted with Mr. Colville and on speaking terms with Theodore Mest. He gets presents from female seminaries and testimonials from the costnmers. He is clever, he gave the best definition once of comic opera: "A whirl and swirl of girl," said he, and then went to sleep.

Roscoe Conkling's Latest Effort.

NEW YORK, July 24.—[Special.]—Everybody has fled to the country. Roscoe Conkling is about the only prominent man left in town. No matter how hot the weather, he turns up in court daily, arguing cases with consummate ability and piling up a fortune which just now seems to be the summit of his ambition. He won new laurels in the suit of Edward S. Stokes against Jay Gould yclept "The Bankers' and Merchants' telegraph company versus the Western Union." The case has been so belogged by long-winded reports of the trial that it will bear consideration for popular information. Here it is briefly. The American Rapid telegraph company became bankrupt. Its wires passed into the possession of the Bankers' and Merchanta' company. The latter company became embarrassed and went into the hands of a receiver. Roscoe Conkling's Latest Effort, ers' and Merchants' company. The latter company became embarrassed and went into the hands of a receiver. In the litigation over the estate of the American Rapid company the Western Union acquired a right to its wires. Judge Donohne granted an order directing the receiver of the Bankers and Merchants cempany to surrender the American Rapid wires to the Western Union. Meantime, however, the Bankers and Merchants had stretched some of its own wires on the poles of the Rapid company. The receiver found it difficult to separate them. In a fit of indignation Dr. Norvin Green drank a glass of whisky and sugar and cut all the wires glass of whisky and sugar and cut all the wires on the poles of the Rapid company in this city, and led them into the Western Union office. and led them into the Western Union omce. This isolated the Bankers and Merchants company and stopped its business. A suit was brought for damages and it was this suit that Conking wan. The company got $240,000 damages.

He argued the case before the jury early in He argued the case before the jury early in the morning, when very few prominent men were present. Rarely has he appeared to greater advantage. He spoke a little less than two hours. He was in perfect bodily and intellectual health. His voice was unusually clear. The nasal twang, so pronounced in his efforts at political conventions was much softened. His argument was compact and ornamented with sarcasm that at times made the atmosphere almost indescent. He were adark gray suit

A handkerchief with a blue border peeped from his breast pocket, and he wore a lilac colored necktie and broad white wore a lilac colored necktie and broad white cuffs. His speech was evidently carefully prepared and he had apparently committed it to memory. Each sentence was perfectly rounded and classically expressed. The court room was as still as death. At times the ex-senator paused, as though studying the effect of his argument on the jury. Then he would draw himself to his full height, lowering his white index finger to a dead level, like a duelist leveling a derringer, and shoot pointed facts into the foreman of the panel, and the minds of his hearers who listened with rapt attention. His address was made all the more powerful by its contrast with the speech of Bob Ingersoll, who had preceded him. Bob was retained on the same side as Conkling, and made what he considered the effort of his side. It was elequont and masterconting, and made what he considered the effort of his side. It was eloquont and masterly, but did not seem to take root. He had the advantage of Roscoe in having the opening; yet extracts from Conkling's argument are floating all over the country, while Bob is hardly mentioned. It is to Conkling's credit that in no case did he tread in Bob's footsteps or attempt to broaden Bob's deductions. He cut a swath of his own, raked his own hay, and cocked it. His logic was direct, fresh and

Mr. Conkling pays no attention to politics, He rarely converses on political topics with even his most intimate friends. STATE OF GEORGIA, OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, Atlanta, July 22, 1886.—Section 1234 of the code makes it the duty of clerks of the superior courts to forward to the state school commissioner certified statements as to what persons have been selected to serve as members of the boards of county education for the several counties. The law provides no compensation for making and forwarding certificates. It is one of the duties imposed by law on everysuch clerk, and is obligatory also under the law defining his duties. See Code, sec. 267, par. 17.

It a clerk refuses to perform this duty, the proper course, I think, is to inform the governor of such refusal, that he may direct the solicitor general of the circuit in which such clerk resides to rule the clerk for such failure to perform his duty, as provided for in Section 269 of the Code, or direct such other action in the premises as he may think proper. REMINISCENCES OF THE FIRST BATTLE OF MANASSAS.

A Vivid and Realistic Description of the Scene at Bull Run-The Sunday After the Fight-The Surgeon's Work-Burying the Dead-Marching With Stonewall Jackson.

Twenty-five years! A quarter of a century has passed since the first battle of Manassas A battle that made a more lasting impression upon the nation than any that occurred during the war. It was the first shock of the earthquake. The first blood, the first glory and the first grief. We had read about wars all our lives and about bloody battles where thousands and thousands were slain. We had in earliest childhood looked at the pictures and wondered and wondered. The few books that had them were almost worn out with our thumbing the leaves and we would talk over the same old heroes and wonder again. Our mothers made us read the Bible every Sunday and when we came to a big battle our minds were filled with awe at the contemplation of bloody things. What a wonderful hero was Samson who seized an old jawbone of an ass and like a mighty giant went threshing around smiting the Philistines hip and thigh, and never stopped until he had slain a thousand men. Then we came had slain a thousand men. Then we came down to the revolution where our forefathers fought, and there were the pictures of Bunker Hill and Lexington and Yorktown, that were nearer kin. But still it was all a fanciful dream. Nearly fifty years had passed since Jackson fought at New Orleans, and those heroes were dead. Here and there was a man who fought in Mexico, but they were of a past generation, and that war was not intensified by a long quarrel among brethren—people of the same blood and nation. The north and south had been quarreling for more than fifty years, and at last had come to blows and to blood. The chip on the hat had been knocked off.

What an awful scene it was, that first bat tle. At home it was awful when one man was suddenly killed. It startled a whole com suddenly killed. It startied a whole community, and the news of it was carried from nabor to nabor until it was the talk of the county. My elder brother was a doctor, and I was permitted to look on once when Dr. Wildman cut a man's leg off, and I saw the quivering flesh and the arteries, and the blood, and the thigh bone expected with the saw and heard the paper. the arteries, and the blood, and the thigh bone severed with the saw, and heard the poor man's groans, and I had not forgotten that. But here were men, young men, healthy and strong and brave, shot down by the score. Many were dead and many were dying, and they were all around me. The pine thicket and the open field close by, where the Eighth Georgia and Fourth Alabama fought side by side, was specked with them. That pine grove and field was a terrible shock to me, for my friends were there and some of my kindred. The dead seemed asleep with their arms near The dead seemed asleep with their arms near by. The wounded asked for water. Their surviving comrades had left them to pursue an enemy that was still fighting though retreat an enemy than was start ngaring, hough retreating. We hurried to the branch for water. We rode to the rear for heip-for ambulances. We found the wounded all along the route and the news was that Bartow and Bee were killed and Colonel Gardner was wounded, and a prisoner. Shout after shout was heard as the front advanced, and the anemy retreated. Every vanced and the enemy retreated. Every where there was wild hurrying to and fro Ambulances went on the run to the battle Ambulances went on the run to the battle field. Couriers with orders flew in hot haste over hill and plain. Generals with their staff galloped from hill to hill to overlook the movements of their troops who were surging and swaying at double quick and yelling like wild Camanches as they drove back the enemy and broke their columns. The air was filled with smoke. The minnie balls rattled through the privace respect their force against filled with smoke. The minnie balls rattled through the pines or spent their force against the fences or upon the ground. The canonoding was incessant and was continued bong after the enemy was out of reach. The terrible sound of it lent wings to their flight and they left everything behind them. Night shut down upon the scene and brought rest—rest to the weary, but not to the wounded. All night long we watched and waited, and nursed and comforted them as best we could. The surgeon's knife was busy, and as one poor fellow was attended to and moved aside the doctor wiped the perspiration from his brow and hurriedly said, "next." There was not a groan nor a mosn as "next." There was not a groan nor a moan as arms and legs were hastily amputated. I dont believe that the boys had much feeling then. them up to a pitch that smothered feeling. They talked and laughed and cried as the surgeons dressed their wounds. I saw Dr. Miller cut a ball from Jet Howard's hip that had come nearly through from the other side, and Jet stood up to have it done, and as the ball dropped into the doctor's hand he seized ball dropped into the doctor's hand he seized it and said, "I wouldent take a thousand dollars for this," It was Sunday. What a day for such deeds of carnage. The next day was devoted to the dead. Our own dead were buried in spots selected by their friends and some rude headboard marked the name. The federals were lined in trenches with head to feet in nameless graves. They were thick in some places, so thick that one could step from corpse to corpse. It was the third day before some of them were buried, and they had swollen and looked fat and bloated, and some of their clothing had bursted with swelling of their clothing had bursted with swelling fresh. There was a company of Zouaves in Turkish costume, who looked like a race of giants sleeping there. Dead horses strewed the ground, and they were swollen too and their legs stood out without touching the ground, and the buzzards sat upon their heads and feasted upon their eveballs as the sweetand feasted upon their eyeballs as the sweet-est morsel te begin with. Artillery horses fell dead upon each other and were cross and piles and the harness had to be cut away.

This battle was insignificant when compared with those that came after, but it was so that the soldiers and the nation got used to blood. Within a year the shock of it had passed. The horror of it was gone. The army wagons marched over the battle field of Seven Pines a month or so later, after it was fought and as the whealer washed cover the shallow transhed. the wheels crashed across the shallow trenches where the dead were buried, one could see an arm or a leg shoot up or hear the bones crack with the passing weight. The teamsters look-ed back and smiled or cracked a heartless joke -blood and death and corpses are nothing in war-nothing when one gets hardened to them. It is all business and destiny. No wonder that Bonaparte fought on and felt no sympathy. He was used to it and the dead were nothing. It was no more than a game of chess and the people were the pawns. The anguish of a dying man on the field, strife is enough. But more than this is the silent grief of widowed wife and fatherless children, and of the mothers and fethers whose wife and fatherless children, and of the mothers and fathers and sisters and brothers whose unbidden tears flow on and flow ever for the lest one. Is there no remedy for this curse? Oh why will nations fight? Why will people fight? Here in a time of peace one man kills another and brings a woe and a grief that, like Banquo's ghost, will never never down. Could it not have been avoided? When a man is crazei by liquor is it courage to hunt him down like he was a beast and slay him? or is it not a better courage to avoid him to hunt him down like he was a beast and siay him? or is it not a better courage to avoid him and give his friehds and kindred a chance to save him? What is our country coming to that every young man carries a weapon of death in his pocket? They did not use to do so. I understand that most every lad in our community carries a pistol. What for and why? Are our laws and our course powerless to protect our people? Have we no judge nor juries? Have even the boys got to protect and defend themselves? A man may be conjuries? Have even the boys got to protect and defend themselves? A man may be constrained to carry a pistol on some emergency, but I believe Judge Hammond was right when he charged the grand jury that a man who habitually carried a pistol was a coward. The pistol may make a bully of him and then he is still more contemptible, for he is a dangerous fool. I heard a young man confess that he carried a pistol for two years and one morning he forgot it and he felt so helpless that if a feller had have crooked his finger at him he would have run like a turkey. This made him ashamed of himself and he discarded it for good. Whisky and pistols are in copartnership, and it is a bad firm.

Twenty-five years ago General Johnston's army left Winchester on the sly and hurried to Manssas, while Patterson was waiting for a fight at Buckletown, a few miles out from Winchester. For days and weeks they had been sparring at each other, and we thought every day they would fight. Old Joe left enough troops skirmtshing around to keep Patterson from suspecting any trick, but the bulk of his splendid army got marching orders in a still, quiet way, and by night were near the Shenandoah. We crossed that river by torch light. It was a wild, exciting scene to see the boys wading through at the ford and holding their guns and cartridge boxes over their heads. There were some little fellows along in our crowd and they had to tip toe to keep the water out of their months, but they got there all the same. There were no dry clothes for next day, but they rested on the grass around Paris and let the morning sun give them a dry suit. I remember that there was a child born to us at my house on that eventful night, and a year after when I went home on furlough I travelled with a man who was very inquisitive, and when he asked me how many children. after when I went home on furlough I travelled with a man who was very inquisitive, and when he asked me how many children I had I told him six, and that I had never seen one of them. He pondered it over a few minutes and said: "That is very strange, and I would like to ask how it has happened that that you have never seen your children." Said I, "My friend, I said that I had never seen one of them, for one was born after I left home last June." He saw the point, and troubled me no more.

The soldiers are having reunions now, and I am glad to see they are becoming so universal at the south. It is sad to see how few of a company have survived the perils of the war and the surer perils of death since the war. One by one they go. But let them meet and take comfort, and let their hearts twine together as they talk over the sad but glorious past. A regiment—will make about a com-pany now, but in a few more years it will take a brigade. But few are under forty-five, and many have a wound that has never heal-ed or a disease that will not cure. God bless them all, and inspire their children to love their country as their fathers did.

A house on Alabama street fitted up private boxes, with lock and key, for the convenience of their customers. A party on Mitchell street was arrested last year for selling by the quart and allowing the same to be drank where sold. I am informed that he was discharged, the recorder stating that there was no law to prevent liquor being drank under his license. Another party has been selling out mear the East Tennessee shops by the quart, and furnishing glasses for his customers to drink from. Yet nohing nas been done in his case, because it has always been understood that he was acting within the law. Even the houses of iil-fame have been selling by the quart, and under the same kind of icense that the wholesale liquor dealers, and the arrested parties now have. Yet, I hardly think the purchasers went outside of the premises to drink the liquor purchased there. Our county and city officials surely were cognizant of these facts. Yet, no objection was made by them. One wholesale dealer closed his business early in June last, because his county license expired at that time, hence had no vested rights whereby he might continue. Now, Mr. Editor, does it not look like prejudice and unfair dealing, not to say persecution, to force these men who are trying to conduct their business in accordance with law—to close their houses, notwithstanding the vested rights guaranteed them by our legislature, in what is known as the general focal option act?

CONVINCING A JUROR.

How an Earthquake Was Utilized in Reasoning With an Obstinate Man.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.
On the morning of May 26, this year, the On the morning of May 26, this year, the jury trying Harry Huff for the murder of Matthew T. Eddy returned into court after being out all night and asked Judge Toohy for further instructions. Just as the judge concluded the reading of his second charge and the jury was about to retire again, a strong sarthquake shock sent a tremor through the old building, accompanied by a loud rumbling noise. Among the first of the many who rushed for the door was large. Alter Alexen a recent arrival from the east. Juror Alfred Larsen, a recent arrival from the east, now working as a clerk in a wholesale grocery now working as a cleirk in a wholesale grovery house down town. A deputy sheriff intercepted his flight, however, and conducted him with the others, to the jury room, for further deliberation. Larsen's pallid cheeks, trembling lips and bulging eyes were too evident proofs of the fears and misgivings which agitated his timid soul for the other jurys, all old Californians to resist the other jurors, all old Californians, to resist the temptation of accomplishing a brilliant stroke of combined policy and revenge. Larsen had been holding out from the first on a verdict of acquital, the other eleven being all for conviction of murder in the first on a verdict of acquitally placed by the manual or pleas, and they were naturally very much incensed about it. This carthunake shock, however, gave them the opportunity which they wanted, and the manner in which they commenced playing upon his fear was something astenishing.

"Look there, Larsen said one of the more, excitedly, as he pointed to a large aperture in the

"Look there, Laren, said one of the more, excitedly, as he pointed to be large aperture hither than the plastered wall. "Do you see that crack," hear, that was made by the great earthquake of 1868, when so many buildings were destroyed in San Francisco."

"Yes," was the eager interruption of another, "this old death-trap was so badly shaken up that those iron girders you see up there had to be put in to keep those walls together."

"I'm getting confoundedly uneasy," said some one else, "for the first shock is always followed by two or three more, and this rotten pile is liable to go crumbling and crashing to the ground at any minute. I wish I was out of here."

"My God!" cried Larsen, almost in tears, "is it so bad as that? O, gentlemen, what shall! do"

"Come over to our side and agree to a verdict of murder in the first degree," was the almost unanimous chorus, Seriously frightened as Larsen was he would not consent to this, but offered to compromise on manslaughter. To this proposition, however, the others would not agree. A short discussion ensued, which finally resulted in a compromise on murder in the second degree, and a verdict was rendered to that effect.

UMIDIATING ERUPTIONS, ITCHING AND burning skin tortures, losthsome some and evine species of itching, scaly, pinnply, inherited strotulous and contactous diseases of the blood skin and scalp, with loss of half, from infancy to lid ace, as positively cured by Cuticura, the great skin cyre, and Cuticura Soap, an exquisite skin beautifyer, externally, and Cuticura Resolvent, the new blood purifier, internally.

COVERED WITM SORES.

I have been afficted since last March with a skin disease the doctor called eczema. My face was covered with scabband sores, and the itching and burning was almost unbearable. Seeing your Cuticura Remedies so bighly recommended, concluded to give them a trial, using the Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, and Zesolvent, in ternally, for four months. I call myself cured: in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

MRS. CLARA A. FREDERICK,
Broad Brook, Conn.

SCALP, FACE, EARS AND NECK. I was afflicted with eczema on the scalp, face ears and neck, which the druggist, where I got your remedies, pronounced one of the worst cases that had come under his notice. He advised me to try your Cuticura remedies, and after five days' use my scalp and part of my face were entirely cured, and I hope in another week to have my cars, neck, and the other part of my face cured.

ITCHING DISEASES CURED.

Cuticura stands at the head of its class, especially is this the case with the Cuticura Soap. Have had an unusually good sale this summer, owing to the prevadence of an aggravated form of itch through some localities in the country, in which the Cuticura Remedies proved satisfactory.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,

ATLANTA. July 24, 1886.

There is considerable inquiry for Georgia railroad stock, while Central has jumped a couple of points and closes the week strong. Outside of these items there is nothing special to be told.

Money is abundant our country over, and any one in good credit or having marketable collaterals finds ready access to it at low rates. Francisco finds ready access to it at low rates. Exports of gold have been of no consequence for two weeks past, and with increased shipments of produce abroad and foreign buying of our securities, which has been quite extensive the past few days, there is no reason to look for money stringency from that quarter in the near future.

at the moment there are no labordisturbances to mar the business situation; and, taken all in all, the outlooklisdecidedly cheerful. In some sections of our state crops have been materially injured by of our state crops have been materially injured by excessive rains, while in others the damage arises from the opposite cause, but the prospect is now for an average crop, and we will all have enough to go upon, as Bill Arp says. The railroads will have the usual amount of hauling to do, and the merchant get his usual trade. We are not getting poorer year by year, as some croakers would have us believe, but every one who lives prudently is accumulating something from day to day. This is proven by the tax digests coming in every day, and which already show a large net increase over last year, although not many counties have reported, year, although not many counties have reported, and will be increased much more when the returns are all in. Another evidence of the same thing is the continuous demand for investment securities and the lower rates interest accepted.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

ocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange. NEW YORK, July 24.—There was little news but the usual supply of rumors at the stock ex-change today, some of which were used with effect upon prices. Advices from the west contained nothing but reports of damage to the corn crop, while certain members of the late Chicago buli party are quoted as taking a very unfavorable view of the crop prospects in that region, and con-sequently of prices of stocks. The selling of Gran-gers continued today but in no round amount, and the prices of those stocks continued to yield slowly. Northern Pacifics were again the strongest stocks on the list. The market was irregular at the opening, the principal changes being advances of ½ per cent in Louisville and Nashville, and ½ per cent in Delaware and Hudson. Subsequent trading was extremely dull and uninteresting throughout the day, prices being generally heavy throughout the day, prices being generally heavy until toward the close, when there was some little improvement in quotations, the market closing steady. Final prices show insignificant changes only from those of last evening, declines predominating. The only notable exception was an advance of 1½ per cent in Louisville and Nashville. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce. Special to The Constitution

CHICAGO, July 24—The wheat market was weak and llower today. The immediate cause was the fear that the next visible supply statement would show an increase of three million bushels. Free receipts at the winter wheat markets also had a depressing effect on prices. The market finally closed 1%c under yesterday. Corn was inclined to be strong early in the session, owing to a continuation of bad crop reports, but gradually fell off on reports of local rains in the southwest, and closed at about yesterday's Receipts of oats were large, and the feeling was heavy, resulting in another decline of 1c. Provisions were dull and averaged lower.

ASSOCIATED ROADS.

Mr. John C. Gault, general manager of the Queen and Crescent system, returned yesterday from the meeting of the ward board of control of the associated roads of Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama at New York The net result of the meeting which was adjourned from Washington, is that unless difficulties should be adjusted the pool will be disadved at the close of lay anglar as division. unless difficulties should be adjusted the pool will be dissolved at the close of Ju y, so far as division of traffic is concerned, though for settlements the officers and machinery will be retained until August 31. The differences which render the continuance of this valuable pool impossible seem to be radical, and are mainly between the Cincinnati Southern or Queen and Crescent system and that of the Louisville and Nashville. One point at issue is the old "Louisville differential." The Q. &.C. management insist that as they have arranged that Louisville shall be on equal terms with Cincinnati in getting feeight from the east, the Q. &.C. ball deliver freight to competitive territory as cheaply from Cincinnati as it is delivered from Louisville. Another point is the insistence by the Li. & N. of their right to deliver freight 19. Q. &.C. local point, and allow the latter only Isla on the haul, the local earnings mean-

THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT. To the Stockholders: As required by the char-ter, the directors submit the annual report of the operations of your property for the fiscal year end-ing June 30, 1886:

hg June 33, 1880; The gross earnings have been $307,259.15. The mrent expenses of operation and all other pay-tents have been $259,258.22, leaving as net earn-current expenses of operation and all other payments have been $259,258.22, leaving as net earnings $138,000,95.

The payment of interest and dividends have been $147,564, showing a deficit of $9,853.07. which sum has been drawn from our reserve fund.

The increase of expenses over the previous year is accounted for in the excellent report of the general manager, to which your attention is invited. This result was foreshadowed in our report last year. The necessity for new cars and the impending change of gauge, with its calls for increased material and labor, were foreseen, but we hoped for an increased income from the New Orleans exposition travel swifficient to meet the increased wants, but were utterly disappointed—the receipts from through travel showing a decrease from the previous year of $23,944.66. While the operations of the past year have rendered a resort to the surplus fund again necessary to pay the usual dividends, there is nothing in this fact that should be regarded as discouraging to the stockholders in view of the future. Our local business holds up fairly without apparent detriment from the extension of the Columbus and Rome railroad to Greenville. The new competing line for New Orleans and Texas business via Birmingham and Meridian has doubtless deflected some through business from our road, but the short line has large advantages in gradients, curves and distance, which will enable it to control a large majority of the business.

which will enable it to control a range inaporary the business.

With average crops and no greater depression in the general industries of the south than at the present time, it is probable that the gross earnings will not fall far short of those of the past year. The only imperative want for the ensuing year beyond the current operating expenses is an increase of freight cars. The track may be maintained in its present excellent condition without further renewal of the iron rails if the finances of the company should not be easy, but the renewal of about three miles per year will doubtless be the better course if our finances will admit it.

The change of gauge was successfully made un-better course if our finances will admit it.

The change of gauge was successfully made under the carefully peepared rules, and vigilant enforcement of them, by the general manager. No accident or delay occurred to mar the complete success of the change, while the cost will we think, compare favorably, in point of economy, with any road in the system.

ATLANTA TO HAWKINSVILLE.

An Enthusiastic Meeting in Behalf of the HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., July 24.-[Special.]-Pursuant to a previous notice, a large gathering of citizens of Pulaski and adjoining counties met at the courthouse today in the interest of the contemplated railroad from Hawkinsville to Atlanta.

The meeting was organized by calling Colone

M. T. Hodge to the chair, and appointing Captain

John H. Martin to act as secretary.

The object of the meeting was explained at some length by the chair, showing the advantages and public necessity of a railroad from Atlanta to Hawkinsville. The attendance was large—many coming in from a distance. The chairman's open-ing address was eloquent, and well received.

Colonel Adair, from Atlanta, was next intro duced and in an eloquent speech of nearly two hours long, discussed the utility and advantage of the proposed road, and showed clearly that the almost unexampled prosperity of the city of At-lanta was due entirely to her system of railroads, having grown in a few years from a small inland town to a great city and railroad center. The proposed road will be built on the narrow gauge plan, and can be put in running order at six tho sand dollars per mile. The speaker concluded his address with the hope that Hawkinsville and Atlanta will soon be connected by a narrow gauge.

Colonel L. W. Lamar then took the stand, and in aneat and well considered speech, advocated the immediate building of the narrow gauge road

ed in not finding Hawkinsville a city of five thou sand inhabitants instead of its present number of twenty-five hundred, showing that she had only lived and not improved as she should have done.

Owing to her facilities. Hawkinsville needs this road much more than Atlanta does. Hawkinsville has a much better advantage than Macon. This road will be a source of large profit to those who build it, and a subscription of twenty; to twenty the war. At present there are seven steamers or

Mr. James E. Laidley spoke at some length on the river question. He said the navigation of this

The inference from all this is that the old disputed points are still disputed. The State Convention and Its Work. Next Wednesday morning the state democratic convention will assemble in Atlanta. The indications are that it will be the largest convention that has assembled in Georgia in many years. There is every reason why it should be the most harmonious. An attempt may be made to prevent General Gordon's receiving the unanimous nomination to which he is entitled by party usage and party courtesy. THE CONSTITU-TION has no considerations to urge on the convention on this point. If such an attempt is made it will simply develop the weakness of the men who try it.

We have the most perfect assurance that the overwhelming majority of Major Bacon's supporters are as earnestly now for General Gordon as they were a month ago for Major Bacon. They will resist any attempt to perpetuate the strife that in all fairness ended at the democratic ballot box in the prima-

As a matter of course, a single delegate can prevent General Gordon's nomination heing made unanimous. But a dozen dele gates cannot break the force of his splendid victory or impede his progress to the governor's mansion. The campaign just closed has been a singularly fair one. It has been fought in open field and with open methods. More democrats have taken part in it than in any democratic primary in our history. Had General Gordon secured barely a majority of the delegates elected, no matter how fair the fight or full the vote, there might have been excuse for further contest. But he has not only secured a majority, but two-thirds of the delegates-not only two-thirds, but nearly three fourths.

All reason or excuse for further opposition is gone. Perhaps some of those who assumed to boss the people and were rebuked, will exhibit a little temper. In spite of this General Gordon will receive the practically unanimous vote of the convention, and when nominated will be elected by the biggest majority ever given a democratic candidate in Georgia. This majority will be larger if he is opposed by an independent than if he runs without opposition.

An Infamous Swindle.

More than one correspondent has recently written to inquire why THE CONSTITUTION persists in identifying Statesman Morrison with the whisky ring, and some of them bave asked about the whisky ring. THE Constitution had good reason to suppose that every newspaper in the country knows something of the nature and extent of the whisky ring, but as there really seems to be some ignorance in regard to it, and in regard to its operations, we take son to understand the purposes of the whisky To begin with, the whisky ring is an association of distillers in the western states formed for the purpose of evading the law. It is a very powerful association. It has plenty of money, and it has been able to buy congressmen of both parties. For a long time it had complete control of the commissioner of internal revenue, and during the last administration, it had the United pleasure in giving, in brief shape, such information as will enable any intelligent per-

States attorney general and the secretary of the interior in its pay.

The government, under the law, impose a tax on every gallon of whisky manufactured by the distillers. 'In the very nature of things, this tax must come out of the pockets of those who buy the whisky from the distillers, but the latter have been for years trying to avoid paying to the government the money that they can at any time collect from their customers. They have bad various schemes before and behind congress to enable them to evade the law, The most of these were exposed and killed by Mr. Randall. But the whisky ring is as lively as ever. It doesn't want the tax removed—as witness Morrison's wild opposition to the Randall tariff bill-for that would open up the whisky business to competition; and it doesn't want to pay a tax to the government which has long been overdue.

The people, speaking through a majority f their representatives in congress, have de-layed that the distillers should be compelled to pay their taxes like other c. 'ene; but the | New England, according to those who have ring is so powerful that it has succeeded in avoiding payment to date. It went so far as to export a great amount of whisky, and Attorney-general Garland, whose reputation is already ruined with Pan-Electric, has per mitted it (the aforesaid ring) to import the same whisky without demanding the payment of taxes. This is a pretty mess, to be sure, but worse remains to be told. The whisky ring now owes to the government-that is, to the people-taxes that amount to $15,000,000. Instead of insisting on the payment of these taxes, Free Trader Morrison, through his ways and means committee, has presented a bill to remove the present limitations in the case, and permit the members of the ring to evade taxation as long as they please. Mr. Randall, who is watchful of the interests of the people, will, no doubt, see that this infamous bill is not allowed to pass. We allude to it here only to explain why we allude to Free Trader Morrison as an agent of the whisky ring.

Other people are compelled to pay their taxes, and there is no reason why the whisky distillers should not pay theirs. The attempt to single them out for favors is in the nature of class legislation, and is an infamous swindle from beginning to end. The lonely wretch who attempts to make a gallon of spirits from his own corn or his own peaches without paying a tax is shot down like a dog by the officers of the law, but the whisky ring, with millions of money at its command and an influential lobby working in its interests, can prevail on such men as Free Trader Morrison and his ways and means committee to propose a bill (the most infamous piece of jobbery) to permit it to evade the law with impunity. The honest people of this country are growing very tired of the efforts of the whisky ring to swindle them, and democrats who have their hands stained by it will not fare well with their constituents. The whisky ring must go.

The Wizard at Work.

Edison, since his marriage, has been unusually quiet, but recent developments show that he has not been altogether idle. The wizard, as he is called, is now devoting his attention to electricity. He proposes at an early day to make some experiments with earth currents. In order to do this he will have to go to some locality, probably Florida, where there is very little mineral in the soil. There are currents of electricity passing all the time through the earth, but their direction is unknown. Edison desires to arrange eight currents radiating from a central point. He will place a man at each circuit to test the power of the currents. In Boston he succeeded in running a wire six hours with the aurora borealis, without a battery.

It is possible that after the Florida experments, this wonderful man will revolutionize telegraphy. But he looks forward to still greater things. When it becomes possible to make instruments that will be sensitive to the natural earth currents, much of the cumbrous machinery now in use will no longer be needed. Power will be everywhere, and it will be cheap. The earth's electric currents will be harnessed to the world's machinery and everything will hum. It looks marvelous, but Edison makes very few mistakes.

Two 'Steamed Contemporaries.

It is very evident that Editor Dorsheimer and Editor Pulitzer are the two worst men in New York. Editor Dorsheimer runs the Star. Editor Pulitzer controls the World: The two are at daggers points, and are telling everything they know about each other, with a few thirgs they don't know thrown Dorsheimer says that Pulitzer joined the federal army to get the bounty offered, and then deserted. After that he was a roustabout a waiter in a restaurant and a livered coachman. Since his rise in the world he has been ashamed of his humble begin-

Now, none of this is pleasant, and the bounty jumping incident, if true, has a black look. However, Pulitzer requires no defense from others. He is fully equal to the business by himself. In his reply to Dorsheimer he charges that able journalist with cheating the government when he left the army after a ninety days' campaign crookedness in the settlement of estates swindling the government while district attorney; and with various other frauds. In short, Pulitzer says:

As a matter of fact, Bilk Dorsheimer is the Dugald Dalgetty of modern politics and the Robert Macaire of the bar. His record is splotched with venality and his whole life is stained with imnorality. He has proven false to his kindred alse to every friendship, false to every cause false to his marriage vows and false to himself. That such a cheat should end his career as a bankrupt hireling and stool pigeon is of that style of justice eminently known as poetic.

This beats the amenities of Eatanswill ournalism. There is nothing like it even on the frontiers of civilization. When we read what Pulitzer says of Dorsheimer, it is impossible to control our indignation, and on the other hand Dorsheimer's statements about Pulitzer only add to our wrath. Clearly, the country is not safe with two such bad men in it. If they tell the truth about each other they ought to be taken out and hanged, and if they are lying they deserve hanging all the more.

Extremes Meet.

A year or two ago, when there was some talk of organizing a white man's republican party in Georgia, certain prominent white republicans wrote a circular descriptive of the situation in this state and of the necessity for such an organization. This circular created something of a sensation at the time it made its appearance, on account of the candor with which it dealt with affairs. The white republicans declared that there were a great many voters in the state who would be republicans but for the fact that the party is identified with the negroes. The circular than went on to say that there was nothing to be hoped for from the negroes, for the reason that they were willing and anxious to sell their votes for money or

This was a serious charge to make even against ignorant negroes, but recent developments show that in the matter of political corruption, extremes meet. The New York Nation declares that the buying and selling of votes in rural New England is one of the most dangerous tendencies of the times. In New Hampsbire, for instance, threefourths of the population live in the farming regions. In the south, the white rural tion stands as a barrier against every population stands as a dataset fisies; but in form of corruption in public affairs; but in the who have the opportunity to speak by the card, the descendents of the Puritans are as eager to sell their votes, and are as shameless in the transaction as the most ignorant southern

Well-to-do farmers in the New England states, according to the Nation, sell their votes openly and pocket the proceeds with as much indifference as though they were selling a barrel of potatoes or a bushel of onions. Sometimes a voter who is too 'honest'' to accept money will sell his vote for a barrel of flour. Thus it happens that in New England, as in the south, thousands of votes are offered for sale at every election. Only in one case, it is men who are supposed to be intelligent, even cultured, while in the other it is a parcel of negroes who are too ignorant to know anything about the responsibilities of citizenship.

Our Artillery Company.

It is gratifying to see the lively interest manifested in the organization of the Atlanta Artillery.

At the capital of the state, a centre of population, and a point from which any part of an extensive territory may be reached in a few hours, we need a well-equipped body of citizen soldiers. We now have infantry and cavalry that may be relied upon in any emergency. Artillery is the only branch that is lacking, and we cannot afford to go without it any longer .-

Very recently, during the disturbances at the Dade county mines, the fact was brought out that the nearest artillery company was at Albany. If quick work had been required in the northern part of the state this Albany company would have been too far away for immediate and effective use. It is true that we may never have occasion to call out a company armed with big guns. So much the better, but we should nevertheless prepare for war in times of peace. It is bad policy to wait until the crisis comes.

Fortunately, the Atlanta Artillery will not have to submit to a tedious delay in securing guns. Twelve guns, if so many should be required, are practically ready. All the company has to do is to organize. We have the material here for a first-class organization, and the gentlemen who are actively moving in the matter know what they are about when they promise that it shall be equal to Savannah's historic "Chathams."

IT is announced that the Apaches have declared for peace. This is probably because they have found out that we have a very warlike administration.

LOGAN's speech on Murat Halstead is very good-in fact, it is excellent. We are confirmed in this opinion by the fact that Editor Halstead is opposed to Georgia granite.

THE attacks of Editor Dorsheimer, of the New York Star, on Joseph Pulitzer show the depravity of one variety of New York journalism. However humble the beginning of Mr. Pulitzer's career, he has achieved an honorable success. Moreover, every man of any sequence in this country has had an humble beginning, What Dorsheimer evidently regards as abuse is really praise.

ECHOES FROM THE PEOPLE. Jeffersonian Principles.

J. T. G., Seneca, S. C: Please give me a oneise general summary of the "Jeffersonian winciples" so often referred to by political speak-is and newspapers.

The following extracts from Jefferson's first in ugural address will give you the desired informa-

Though the will of the majority is in all cases "Inough the will of the majority is in all cases to prevail, that will, to be rightful, must be reasonable; the minority posses their equal rights which equal laws must protect, and to violate which would be oppression."
"Having banished from our land that religious intolerance under which mankind so long bled and suffered, we have yet gained little, if we countenance a political intolerance as despotic, and capable of as wicked and bloody persecution."

countenance a political intolerance as despotic, and capable of as wicked and bloody persection."

"I believe this the strongest government on earth. I believe it the only one where every man at the call of the laws would fly to the standard of the law, and would meet invasion of the public order as his own personal concern. Sometimes it is said that man cannot be trusted with the government of himself. Can he then be trusted with the government of himself. Can he then be trusted with the government of himself. On his we found angels in the form of kings to govern him?"

"A wise and frugal government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, and which shall leave them thoroughly free to regulate their own 1 ursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government."

"Equal and exact justice to all men, of whatever state or persuation, religious or political; peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none; the support of the state governments in all their rights as the most competent administrations for our domestic concerns, and the bulwark against anti-republican tendencies; the preservation of the general government in its whole constitutional vigor as the sheet anchor of our peace at home and safety abroad: a jealous care of the right of election by the people—a mild and safe corrective of abuses which are lopped by the sword of revolution where peaceful remedies are unprovided; absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority—the vital principle of republics from which there is no appeal but to force, the vital principle and immediate parent of despotism; a well disciplined militia—our best reliance in peace and for the first moments of war till regulars may relieve them; the supremacy of the eivil over the military authority: economy in public expenditures that labor may be lightly burdened; the honest payment of our debts and sacred preservation of the public faith: e son inder the protection to the hards conjugated at trial by juries impartially selected. These principles should be the creed of our political faith, the text of civil instruction, the touchstone by which to try the services of those we trust; and, should we wander from them in the moments of errorjor alarm, let us hasten to retrace our steps, to regalin the road which alone leads to peace, liberty and safety."

IN THE AIR.

An Eye-Witness Describes General Porter's Balloon Ride.

WEST CUNNINGTON, Mass., July 23.—Editors Constitution: I see that you have published an interesting account of General Porter's involuntary ride in the air on the Peninsula, in the spring of 1862. I did not know only by report who was in the balloon, and have forgotten which Porter it was said to be, but if memory serves me correctly I saw the balloon as soon as it was afloat in the air, and watched its course until it descended within McClellan's lines. It does not now seem to me that it v as up over two hours. I had served some weeks the fall previous under Colonel Lowe, who was in the government employ as a balloonist. at Edwards' ferry, on the Potomac, with a balloon, and therefore watched porters ride with a keen interest. As he was waitzed over the confederate lines at a slight elevation, and they began firing at him, he threw out ballast in the usual way, letting the sand descend in a stream plainly visible, and, rose, out of rifle range, but not out of the current which was carrying him away from us. Soon he threw out ballast very freely, and rose to so great a height that it was difficult to keep the eye upon him, and hard to locate him again if you lost him for an instant. At that height it could not be told from the ground which way be was moving or whose lines he was over. Suddenly he descended with great WEST CUNNINGTON, Mass., July 23 .- Edistant. At that neight it could not be told from the ground which way he was moving or whose lines he was over. Suddenly he descended with great rapidity. As he neared the earth it became evicent that he would strike within our lines with fatal velocity. His rapid descent was reported to be due to the fact that the balloon had become coated with frost at its great elevation, so that he was obliged to throw his whole weight upon the rope to raise the valve elevation, so that he was obliged to throw his whole weight uron the rope to raise the valve which, on account of Ice, he could not close again. His escape from instant death was reported to be due to the fact that he climbed into the netting above the basket, which would naturally decrease the violence with which he should strike, the instant after the basket had struck. It was also reported that he was found heavily coated with frest, with blood issuing from his cars and nostrols, and that he was some hours in coming around all right.

You will see that although I was an eye-witness of his ride in the air that my knowledge of most that I bave written is simply a memory of what I was told at the time. CHANGING INTO A DESERT. The Plains of Colorado Drying up and the DENVER, Col., July 24.—The great plains are hot and parched and daily they are becoming more like the veritable desert of the pioneer days. Not for many years has there been such a scarcity of water in Colorado, and especially in the region of the Platte. Vegetation is becoming brown and crisp. The grass is withered, wells are drying up, irrigation ditches are dry, crops are burned up by irrigation ditches are dry, crops are burned up by the intense heat. Cattle are dying, and at some points on the plains the people are almost periah-

Pitiful are the tales told by ranchmen of cropa destroyed, cattle perishing and their families in great danger of sufering. Reports from the eastern parts of Arapahoe and Weed counties, near the Colorado line, represents a terrible state of affairs. This section reems fated to dissister and misfortune. Last winter it is estimated that 10 people lost their lives near the state line in snowblockades and terrible storms that prevailed. Now thay are scourged with an intense heat that is bringing ruin and disaster. No emigrants for many years have suffered such extremes of heat and cold as they. Induced by the favorable reports of the rainfail of the two previous years, and influenced by the commonly accepted theory that the rainfail is each year increasing and the rain centre moving westward, hundreds of new settlers have attempted raising crops without irrigation, but the present season has been a very unfortunate one, not only the crops totally destroyed and their stock dying, but the unfortunate ranchmen and their families are in some places suffering for water to drink. Nothing but misery is ahead of them, and unless relief of some kind is soon obtained it is said that they will be obliged to move away or perish. Cattle are chooking with thirst and often the poor prues are Pitiful are the tales told by ranchmen of cro out misery is ahead of them, and unless rener or some kind is soon obtained it is said that they will be obliged to move away or perish. Cattle are choaking with thirst and often the poor brutes are seen standing at the dried-up watering places with tongues folling out of their mouths. In some places the wild animals are becoming tame even the antelope, the fleetest and most active animals on the plains, in some instances have become so exhausted from thirst that they have been easily captured by poys from the ranches. The reports from all the ranchmen confirm the statement that unless water is procured the suffering among cattle will result most fatally and that the lost to ranchmen will be immense, as these little bunches are in many cases all the ranchmen posses; to lose them would be most disastrous. In fact, as one ranchman expressed it, it is a matter of life and death to them. The great stock ranges, which it had been hoped would escape, are now becoming brown, and the leading stockmen are beginning to feel apprehensive. The cattle have suffered more in the southern sections and many have perished.

About 100,000 head have been rushed through the

About 100,000 head have been rushed through the About 100,000 head have been rushed through the state from the dry regions to the ranges of the northwest. The Rio Grande river has a good volume, but the Arkansas and Platte rivers are low, and at some points the Platte is now but ankle deep, below the great irrigation ditches, and many troublesome questions have arisen over irrigation problem. In many places along the Platte the ranchmen are armed, and will fight unless they obtain their rights. The big ditch companies are monopolizing what little water there is, and the feeling is very bitter. There have already been several encounters, but no loss of life has get resulted. several encounters, but no loss of life has yet re suited. Representative ranchmen from the plains have just held a convention in Denver, and say it they cannot have water by peaceful means they will take it by force. "Water, water; give us wa-ter," is the cry that comes from the plains. Governor Eaton has just given an audience to a committee of ranchmen, and devising means for a fair distribution of the water and it we heard that committee of ranchmen, and devising means for a fair distribution of the water, and it is hoped that he will succeed. Unless something is done there is danger of bloodshed. The great ditch monopolies are guarding their ditches with armed men, and the ranchmen, hundreds of whom are now secretly organized and armed, say that unless relief is soon given they will cut the canals. Denver is feeling the result of the drought. The city's water supply comes from the Platte, and the water works company has issued a request to all citizens to be as economical as possible in the use of water, and especially for lawn purposes. Some of the small towns to the east of Denverare's plied with water from this city, and were it if fer the water shipped to them on the railroads inhabitants would soon perish for thirst.

There have been two grand epochs in our history. The first was when our independhistory. The first was when our independence from foreign tyranny was decreed, and the second was when Abe Lincoln signed the proclamation of emancipation of 6,000,000 slaves. But the grandest epoch will be the next when 60,000,000 are treed from the thraldom of strong drink. There are 700,000 slaves to appetite in our prisons whose fate is worse than that of those whom bloodhounds tracked in other days. Because, said the editor, there was not any more of the same sort of dirt. You say that prohibition don't prohibit. You tell a great big lie, you old hound, you. And he added, that if the officials of Clinton had backbone enough prohibition would prohibit in Clinton. He shouted, "Why don't you throw your hats up? Because each one of you is getting a dig in the ribs, and you have enough to do to tote your own skillet."

He said he was democratic from his head to his he said he was democratic from his head to his heels, but he no longer belonged to the democratic party. When the party came out with a non-sumptuary plank it withdrew from him. Non-sumptuary meant consumptuary and friendship to liquor and enmity to prohibition, and the dirty degs had deserted Jeffersonian principles, which were as sacred to him as the Ten Commandments, and were racking around or a whisky barrel. The republican party was no better as it was receined. republican party was no better as it was rocking around on a beer keg. Major Edwards had said that submission would kill democracy. If that was so he would like to preach its funeral, and he had a bouncing text to fit it. He did not want a third party. There were enough parties if they would only keep clean.

A KENTUCKY SNAKE BATER. The Remarkable Gastronomic Taste of Mr. G. F. McQueen, the Stock Breeder. Lexington letter to Cincinnati Commercial.

Mr. G. F. McQueen, of this city, at one time connected with the Kentucky stock farm, has juite a local reputation as an eater. I had a long talk with him, and he says he has eaten along the whole line of dishet—American, English, German, French and Italian. He appreciates oysters in all their forms, chicken and tender froglegs, and when real hungry, can tackle corn-bread, sow-belly. But for a dish that will make the gods smack their lips in genuine satisfaction, give him fat black sucke, fried in butter and lard, or better in rice snake oil. When snakes are in season he eats them every few days. He also classes snalls among his list of delicacies. These he cooks with macaroni.

"When did you first commence cating snakes?" asked the reporter.

"In 1888 I was in California among the Indians. They are snakes, generally black and rattlesnakes. I once tasted; a plece of the latter, which they had cooked. I found it had a delicate flavor, but I did not then like the idea of eating snakes. This repugnance, I found was only an idea, there being no reach for it. I came home to Franklin county, Ky., in 1899. While at home I went out in a clearing, near my father's house, and saw an old Irish hemit, who had resided there many years, kill a black snake. He started to his cabin with it, dragging it behind him. He laxditout on a p'ank, cut off the head and threw the body in a bed of hot ashes to skin it. I asked him what he was going to do. He said he was going to eat it; that it was fine food, and invited me to sup with him. I complied with his request. After skinning it he laid it in salt and water for a while. He then fried it in butter and lard, and it was really delicious. The more I ste the more I wanted. Since that,time I have had a weakness for snake meat, especially black snake. I am afraid of the meat of rattle-snakes. I often give a half dollar for a good sized black snake, which I cook myself. Every year I manage to get some. Since I have been in Lexington I have not been fortunate enough to Indulge my faste as often as I would like. "The century is growing old." So says an exchange. The exchange is right, We have written and spoken of the nineteenth the approach of its successor. The twentieth en-tury is near at hand, and almost before we know it we will bid good-bye to the figure 8, and write 1900. We are in a stone's throw of 1887 and whe I we get there we will be just thirteen years from the twentieth century. That is a very short time to grown folks. It seems no time since we were hurrahing for Tilden and Hendricks, yet it has been ten years. A baby boy born this year will write 1900 before he, discards his tricycle and his It is is generally expected that something very unusual will happen at the end of the twentieth century. At the end of the first two thousand years the flood came, and no one will deny that it was a big thing in its way. At the end of the next two thousand years the Savior was born, and by precept and example taught the world the religion of gentleness and love, and which shall last throughout the ages. What will come at the end of the third two thousand years? It is a hundred and fourteen years off. Will any creature now alive live to see what happens? Some elephants and some camels may, though they generally kick the bneket at a hundred years. Some eaglet of this year may dash a glance on the third great event. fumerous swans, parrots and ravens now living will be there, for they live to be two hundred years oid. It is possible, though, not probable that every human creature now alive Of ten thousand children born three thousand five hundred and forty die in ten years, and only about half of them will reach the age of forty. Nine of them will be alive when the year rolls around-not ten of the ten thousand will live to be a hundred. In one hundred and four years nine thousand nine hundred and ninetynine will have passed away, leaving one solitary, lonely, tottering old man the last of ten thousand. It may be that this last man will be a woman, and if so she will probably deny that she is a hundred and four years old. On the other hand, if the last woman is a man he will propably in accordance with a time honored custom established by the oldest inhabitant, announce that he is a hundred and forty years old, and proceed to gas about things that happened long before he was Here is a story that is too good to keep. I have g roung friend. I will call him Snodgrass because that is not his name. Now Snodgrass has very arge ideas and a very small income. His list of creditors is as long as the declaration of independence. The same might be said of the faces of various and sundry collectors. It seems to be generally agreed that in the management of these financial affairs Snodgrass is not to do any of the walking. Enodgrass occupies what he calls a "sweet" rooms, the "root" to which is up a dusty stairway. To be fashionable Snodgrass sleeps late. The other morning the boy who sweeps up the 'sweet' of rooms for Snodgrass inadvertently left the door open and a bailiff got in with a view to levying a fl. fs. on; the goods and chattels of Snodgrass. Snodgrass asleep, and the bailiff shook him gently. Snodgrass was grass awoke and demanded to know why he had been aroused. "Mr. Spodgrass," said the bailiff, "it is a painful luty, but I have come to levy a fi. fa.'

"Why, man," exclaimed Snodgrass angrily. what do you mean by disturbing a gentleman ir this fashion? Go into the next room there and wait until I finish my morning nap."

The bailiff withdrew; Snodgrass turned over and slept for an hour, during which time the patient bailiff waited.

Gentle reader, you think you know Snodgrass Perhaps you know one of him. His name There is honesty in the land yet. A few days ago a letter was received at the Atlanta postoffice addressed to a colored man, but without any street or number. It was delivered by a carrier to a colenvelope. When the colored man opened the letter be found enclosed a five dollar bill, but he found also that the letter was not intended for him. Instead of pocketing the money and taking the chances on detection, he promptly returned the letter and the bill to the post office. Another case is the following: A small boy was given a letter at the post office. It contained seven dollars in bills. honest person found it and dropped it into a letter box. Next'day a carrier got it out and delivered it to the man for whom it was intended.

"The dippers should be hammered out of iron, and should be ladle-shaped. If they are ladle-shaped all the water will run out as soon as they are turned loose. They should be securely chained, and it should be an offense any one to have tesian water dipper in his pos-session. The name of the city should be stamped tesian on each dipper. Another thing: the waste water from the hydrants as they are now used makes a slop and injures our fine belgian block pavements. I may remark also that the drivers of sprinkling wagons make a good deal more slop than is necessary around the water works hydrants."

Every person who passes over the Western and Atlantic railroad wonders why the builders of the road made the great horse shoe bend at the Etowah river. It is said that this great curve, through what appears to be almost a level plain, was o secure an easy grade. It is said that had a short cut been taken from the bridge across the Etowah to where the road penetrates the mountains on the south the grade would have been doable the thirty-five feet per mile which it now is. So, after all the engineers knew what they were about and had a good excuse.

WHAT WAS ACCOMPLISHED IN

The Good Work of the Revenue Men for the Past Few Days—What the People Have to Say About It—A Runaway Team Causes the Trouble
—Two Illjeit Distilleries Seized.

The revenue men had a lively trip into Morgan county Friday night.

Information had been lodged with members of the revenue department that several illicit distilleries were running in Walton and Morgan counties, not far from Social Circle.

Friday evening Revenue Agents Chapman and Colquitt, with Deputy Collector Chisholm and Depu ly Marshal McDonald went down to Social Circle, fully equipped for a raid. After reaching this point they secured conveyances to go into the country to make the raid. Besides other conveyances, a wagon and team and a driver was hired. At ten o'clock the party started out, and stopped within a few hundred yards of the still. The revenue men struck through the woods and told the driver of the wagon to remain where he was

he was

UNTIL THEY CAME BACK.

The still was found easily enough, but there was no one there. The officers waited patiently, but no one came, and while they were mashing up the still they heard a noise like a cyclone, and upon investigation found that it was the team hooked to the wagon, running away. The men ran up the hill, but the team didn't stop, but continued their frightful flight over hills and ravins. The sleeping negro was thrown out of the wagon and was severely bruised. The officers picked him up and cared for him as kindly as possible. This was about four o'clock in the morning, and while the negro was closely guarded, the other officers went back

AND WATCHED THE STILL.

AND WATCHED THE STILL. When daylight came, the still, wagon and negro were taken back to Social Circle, where the men were told of another distillery only a short distance from where the first one was a snort distance from where the first one was found. The party who gave the information wanted ten dollars, and receiving this, he guided the way for Messrs. Colquitt and Chisholm, leaving McDonald and Chapman to care for the still and Dick Martin, who had been arrested on a warrant, charging him with having worked in an illicit distillary in with having worked in an illicit distillery in Habersham county. The collectors had no trouble in finding the still, but there was no one around, and consequently no arrests were made. The officers believed that the runaway

HAD SCARED EVERYBODY AWAY, and that no further trouble need be feared. Dick Martin went before Commissioner Haight and waived examination, giving bond in the sum of $300. The officers believe that he will come out all right.

THE FIRST BALE.

Colonel Primus Jones Sends the First Bale of New Cotton.

The first bale of new cotton was sold in this city yesterday morning at ten o'clock. The cotton was consigned to Maddox, Ruck-er & Co., and was raised by Primus W. Jones. t was sent by express and was received Fri-day. Yesterday morning at ten o'clock Mr. Charles Cohen jumped on top of the bale of cotton, and after giving a brief history of the life of Colonel Primus Jones, said:

"Now, you gentlemen who deal in the fleecy staple, how much am I offered?"

"Nine conta" sang out a small man with a "Nine cents," sang out a small man with a

"Nine cents," sang out a small man with a large cigar.

"Just enough to pay for a yard of bleaching. How much do I hear?"

"Nine and one-half," put in a smooth-faced gentleman, who sported a gold-headed cane. "Make it ten, gentlemen, make it ten."

"Ten," said the small man with the large cigar.
"And ten it is. Who will go the half?" Mr. Inman made it a half, and it was knocked down to S. M. Inman & Co.

The first bale grown in Georgia this season was consigned to Maddox. Rucker & Co., and sold by them at auction today. It was grown by Primus W. Jones, of Baker county. It classed low middling, and was of good quality for new cotton. Ouite a crowd collected to see the bale sold, and after spirited bidding was knocked down to Mr.W. A. Sanders, of S. M. Inman & Co., at 10½, Judge Dunlap, with his usual modesty, officiated as auctioneer.

The first bale from Texas was sold a day or two ago in front of the New York cotton exchange at

The receipt of this bale is no evidence of an early crop in this section. On the contrary, it is unusually late. Very little cotton will be marketed here in September.

The condition of the crop, however, has improved very much in the last ten days.

"Don't know, but I think he is out at the camp, preparing to open his beer garden, Monday."

"Is he going to open one? What do you "Not much; only that he is going to open one. Captain Rose or Mr. Mayson can tell you all about it."

"What Mayson?"

"T. C. Mayson, on Marietta street," "T. C. Mayson, on Marietta street,"
The reporter at once started for Mr. Mayson's, but on the way encountered him and Captain Rose together, and asked:
"Do you know anything about a beer garden to be opened Monday?"
"Yes," answered Mr. Mayson.
"Who opens it"
"Dr. R. M. Cohen."

"Where?"
"Out at the United States troops' camps."
"How do you know?"
"Because I saw him myself. Here is his ard. He gave it to me and told me that he would open Monday morning."

"Yes," chipped in Captain Rose, "he will open Monday morning, and would have opened this morning, butsaid that he did not have his building ready."

"Can he do it?"
"I guess he can. He said that he had been to the attorney general and secured his writ-ten opinion upon the subject, and that it was favorable to his going ahead."

"Do you believe that he will open the place?"
"Oh yes. I have no doubt of it. He told me so."

"Will he sell to any one but soldiers?"
"I guess he will sell to any," said Captain Rose. "He told me that he did not intend to ask any one out, but if any one came, he would sell them all they wanted to drink."
"But I was under the impression that Mr.

Werner was to be sutler."

'So I have heard. But I have told you all I know. Monday will tell the story, and I guess you will find the beer there."

A visit was then made to the attorneygeneral but he was out of the city. Governor McDaniel was then asked if he knew anything about the attorney-general having given a written opinion, and said that he did not. The rumor was generally believed on the streets last night and was freely discussed.

How the Case Was Made. The case against R. H. Johnston, the druggist at 105 West Peters street, which was made by Captain Manley several days ago, has been dismissed. Yesterday Dr. Johnston called at THE CONSTITUTION office and said: "As I am a stranger, or new-comer to your city, having recently bought out one of Dr. W. M. Cartis's drug stores, and not wishing to be classed with the violators of the law. I would be very much obliged if you will give to the public the true state of my case. On Sunday afterneon last, 18th instant, a man came into my store, and representing himself to be a farmer from Paulding county, said he had a horse sick with the colic, and that he wanted to get some alcohol and ginger to drench him with. I refused to sell him the alcohol and ginger, and expressed my doubts has been dismissed. Yesterday Dr. John to drench him with. I refused to sell him the alcohol and ginger, and expressed my doubts about his having a sick horse, when he asserted he had. Then I said I would prepare him a drench for his horse, and did so. The drench was composed of laudanum, capsicum, chloroform, alcohol and water, for which I charged him fifty cents. He drenched his horse and cured him, and I am informed that he was simple enough to drink some of it, for which he suffered, as he ought to have done. Some one was smart enough to to have done. Some one was smart enough to report me for selling spirituous liquors and I was arrested, but I was as innocent of selling a man a substitute for whisky as any one could have been. I did not violate the law nor do I intend to."

Charles C. Thorn Makes Bond. Charles C. Thorn was released from custody yesterday about noon. Mr. Jordan found it necessary to go into DeKalb county to secure Judge Clark's signature to the proper papers. He returned about noon, and Mr. Thorn was released as soon as his bond could be perfected. Messrs. Wyly & Greene signed the bond.

The Case Postponed Again. The case against Gamble, the Headlight restauranter, was called in police court yesterday morning. Mr. Gamble was not present. but his attorney, Mr. Sibley, was on hand an asked for a continuance. Mr. Sibley stated that Gamble was at his home and was unable to leave on account of the dangerous illness of his mother. The case was continued until

They Will be Heard Wednesday. Yesterday morning the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Metropolitan street railroad company was held in the president's office.

The meeting was largely attended, and was called to order by Doctor Rankin, the president, who submitted his annual report, which was a complete review of the work for the past year. The stockholders then reelected Doctor J. W. Rankin, Colonel L. P. Grant, W. L. Abbott, Jacob Haas, and Wm. A. Haygood, as board of directors. as board of directors.

The board of directors then elected the following officers: President and Treasurer-Dr. J. W. Rankin

Vice-President-W. L. Abbott. During the meeting it was ascertained that the company had received propositions from property owners on Pryor and McDaulel street, looking to an extension of the line to the East Tennesse railroad and McDonough street, and that if the necessary amount is subscribed by the property owners this extension would probably be built. The company, however, will not build it in the absence of these subscriptions, as the present patronage will not warrant it. The extension would open a new territory, and it is hardly probable shatit will long be without the desired facilities. etary-Wm. A. Haygood.

No mere agglomeration of phrases copied from other people's productions, but telling a simple, straight story of the result of a series of efforts to sell you the right kind of goods at the right prices. Friend Keely tells us among other items of interest of his immense and truly ex-cellent stock of shoes. It is astounding how many cellent stock of shoes. It is astounding how many shoes he sells. He has at this time eleven men employed in the sale of shoes alone. His stock of shoes runs away beyond $50,000. He guarantees every pair sold. He fits every foot. He sells no shoddy goods. If a shoe bought of him fails to come up to the representations made at the time of its sale, he will make it good! What more do you desire? This is the perfection of trading method indeed, Is it any wonder then that his shoetrade is so large? His dry goods, too, are inducing an immense volume of patronage just now. He is clesring out his summer stock without mercy. Be sure to read the Captain's notices very carefully. He is one merchant who makes his promises good.

OAMES PLAYED IN THE SOUTHERN LEAGUE YESTERDAY.

Memphis Receives Her Third Successive Defeat at the Hands of Atlanta—A Close and Exciting Games in Charleston—Savannah Beats Nash-ville—Standing of the League Clubs.

The champions are the leaders again. The threatening weather prevented a large rowd foom seeing the Atlantas score another victory over the Bluff city team yestarday.

The game was one of the prettiest and most exciting ever seen on the grounds. No one in the audience felt certain that the home team would win until the last ball had crossed the plate. Purcell presented Conway and Mappes, and when the game opened with Cline up, he found himself facing O'Leary, the great south paw twirler, who did no yield a hit during the first inning, and when the Atlantas took the field, the boy in the club house made a cipher on the board. Graham, who has been umpiring, was in center field for Memphis, and was the first man at the bat and managed to secure a run. After that first inning, goese eggs were the order up to the fourth, when Atlanta scored a run and tied the score amidst loud applause. They then began finding O'Leary and added a run in every inning, except the eventh. The game was almost faulther seventh. The game was almost faultless. The champions played with only one error, and that was unavoidable, while the visitors and that was unavoidable, while the visitors found it necessary to make only two.

Conway was in his old-time shape and pitched a fine game. Only five hits were made off him, and every one was a single, Andrews making three of the five. He struckout six men and made four assists, as well as a fine base hit. O'Leary pitched a good game, and at first the Atlantas were unable to do much with him. They finally guaged him, however, and then the fun began. He gave up eight hits with a total of eighteen bases. Hogan and Mappis got in three-baggers, while the "martyr" made the complete circuit of the bases twice. Hogan did some fine playing and made two of the five runs which was Purcell's run getting too.

Mr. Morris graduated at the last week's commencement with honors, and took the degree of bachelor of philosophy. It is the only time, pernaps, Mr. Morris will be able to pitch, as he is simply on a visit to Atlantas and he ought to draw a large crowd. Of course the Atlanta directors cannot tell how he will bear himself before the heavy hitters of Memphis, but he comes with the highest testimony of all experts

There should be a very large crowd at Athletic park Monday afternoon in order to indicate to the Atlanta champions that the public appreciate their very excellent playing.

Manager Purcell in yesterday's game was not satisfied with anything less than two home-runs, and he got them. Purcell has knocked nine home runs this season.

Umpire Hengle did very fairly in yesterday's game, but seems to be a little rough in speaking to players; especially was this the case when he was talking to the Memphis team. He should be a little more courteous.

The ideal food for infancy is that which nature provides. Civilized life, especially in the great ities, has become so harsh, onerous and artificial that it affects even the little child and its mother. The hearty peasant wife nurses her babe into vigo-rous childhood. The refined and cultured woman rous childhood. The refined and cultured woman is unequal to the task, and falls back upon the skill of the physician or the science of the chemist to preserve the life of her offspring. This is the chief cause of that terrible fact in social life, infant mortality. Two thirds of the baby deaths occur from inantition, or the disease to which it gives rise. The children of the first enjoy the prob toility of life, health and robust strength; those of the second have not an even chance between life and rise. The children of the first enjoy the prob billity of Life, health and robust strength; those of the second have not an even chance between life and death; the latter when they live, are generally puny through babyhood and become the invalids, while the former grow into the bone and sinew of the land. Incomplete infantile nutrition annually costs the country a half million lives and millions of dollars. To this subject the great scientists of the century turned their attention at an early date. The problem of making a perfect infants' food remained unsolved until Liebig, the great organic chemist of the age, investigated the matter in all its relations. He demonstrated that the best substitute for normal human milk was not the milk of any animan, but a combination of animal milk with the elements of those grains which are used by the human system in repairing waste, building tissue and generating heat. We now know that certain preparations of cereals are best adapted for certain morbid conditions of the infantile system, and that others are of therapeutic value in specific diseases. We also know what is the best general type of food for little folks. Many articles in the market approach this type, but that which comes nearest is Mellin's Food. It contains no starch, cellulose, gum, bran or lignose, and so reseables neatured milk. Its predictions are fat. maltose, almarket approach this type, but that which comes nearest is Mellin's Food. It contains no starch, cellulose, gum, bran or lignose, and so resembles natural milk. Its ingredients are fat, maltose, albuminoids, and a natural trace of alkali. It is, therefore, easily digested, palatable and waver, it is so similar to ideal human milk that the difference is infinitesimal. What difference there is favora the artificial food. It is the same at all times and places. Human milk is influenced notably by the emotions. Fear, jealousy, sorrow and rage in the young mother have from time immemorial injuriously affected the child, and in many cases disasasrously. But wheat and barley pass from the waving stalk to the white food of the manufacturer, and thence into the rosy cheek and chubby limbs of the child, without changing or losing in the least their life-giving power. Today all chemists and physicians subscribe to these views and employ this food both in their own homes and with those who consult them professionally. For general use, for the sick and delicate as well as the strong and hearty child, Mellin's Food is unrivalled. In meeting every want and accomplish all it promises, it is the most precious gift that the household has received from modern science. Cholera Infantum is unheard of in families whose children are entirely fed on Mellin's Food. Consumptives, Convalescents from Diphtheria, low fevers and all wasting diseases find this eminent, predigested food most nourishing and curative.

There is a probability that Atlanta will add another chapter to the Weaver-Pierce mys-

The chapter will treat of an array

Soon after the accident on the Georgia Pacific, in which the Texas stock dealer was killed, happened, Mr. C. H. Cox, once a resident of Atlanta, was in Chattanooga. Years ago Mr. Cox lived in Indianapolis, and was in the rubber stamp business in the same building with J. Pierce Weaver in the same building with J. Pierce Weaver and knew him intimately. He read the accounts of the terrible accident and the progress of the case between the two ladies who were claiming the dead man as husband, and just when he became satisfied that the man who had been killed was Weaver, he met Weaver on the street. Weaver at first denied his identity, but when he ascertained that Mr. Cox knew him he admitted all. Mr. Cox then asked him why he did not make public his whereabouts, whereupon Weaver, who was going by the name of J. W. Pierce, said that he wanted his wife to think he way dead. Soon after this Weaver skipped out and went to Charleston. Mr. Cox reached Atlanta yesterday morning, for the first time dead. Soon after this Weaver skipped out and went to Charleston. Mr. Cox reached Atlanta yesterday morning, for the first time since the accident, and spoke of the matter. He was closeted with Mr. Ladsden during the day, and yesterday telegrams were sent to Charleston chief of police, asking for Weaver's

About three o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Weisburg, residing at 80 Whitehail street, was aronsed from a pleasant sleep by a noise in her room. Upon opening her eyes the lady was horrified at seeing a man standing in front of the dressing case industriously going through the drawers. The burglar, however, discovered that he had been detected, and with a spring went out the door, followed by Mrs. Weisburg's scream, which awoke her husband. The burglar was gone when Mr. Weisburg awoke. A search was then made thoroughly, and a small monkeywrench was discovered near the small monkeywrench was discovered near the front door, which the burglar had dropped in his hurried flight. An examination of the dressing case failed to disclose any missing

The matter was reported at police head-quarters yesterday, but no clue to the burglar has been secured.

He Continues to Improve

G. B. Mulligan, the young man who was so severely knifed in a fight on Collins street, at the corner of Decatur street, Toesday night is improving rapidly. Mr. Mulligan says that he was knocked down unexpectedly and then knifed, and that he did not know that he had an enemy in the vicinity. Six months ago he had a difficulty with the party who cut him, but was under the impression that no hard feelings existed, as the matter had been settled. He says that he will be able to get out in a few days and that when he has his trist he will establish that he is innocent of any blame.

He Took an Overcoat.

He Took an Overcoat.

Several months ago Jim Gaddus borrowed an overcoat from Hill, a Marietta street barber, and never returned it notwithstanding the fact that Hill made several efforts to get it back. The coat was valued by Hill at sixteen dollars, and yesterday he swore out a warrant for Gaddus charging him with larceny after trust. The warrant was placed in Patroleman Lyman's hands yesterday morning and yesterday afternoon Gaddus was arrested and locked up. He will be given a preliminary trial tomorrow. preliminary trial tomorrow

He Gave His Wife a Beating.

Wilson Jones lives on Valentine street, and has been in the habit of amusing himself by whipping his wife. Yesterday morning his breakfast did not please him, and he gave his wife a most horrible whipping. Her cries for help were heard a block away, and Mounted Officer Lem McWilliams, who was in the neighborhood, begun to investigate, and find-ing the trouble arrested Jones. He is now in the city prison, charged with assault with in-tent to myrder.

A Pair of Breeches Caused It. Ben Logan entered a clothing house on Decatur street yesterday afternoon, and soon after he left, a pair of breeches were missing. The matter was reported to Patrolmen Stroud and McGee. In a short time they found the breeches in Ben Mitchell's possession. Mitchell said that he had bought them from Logan. Logan was found and locked up on the charge of larceny, while Mitchell went in for receiving stolen goods.

Elijah Bruce, charged with passing counterfeit money, was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Whitley. About two weeks ago Bruce gaves a negro man a dollar in payment for some work. The dollar proved to be counterfeit, and the darkey caused Bruce's arrest. He will be taken before United States Commissioner Haight Monday for trial.

PILLS.

This pill has been in use for the last fifty years, and has taken precedence over all other family preparations by all who have used them. Theosends would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact should supersede any amount of certificates, and that fact is this: Dr. Calhonn has been physician to the Fulton county prison for over seven years, when the number of prisoners ranged from 20 to 70 laboring under all diseases incident to this climate. With but few exceptions they have all been treated with this pill, and astonishing to say, during that long period not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials. There is no type of

Dear Sir—In reply to yours of recent date, I will state that I have been a constant user of your grandfather's Pills for the last 50 years during which time I have used them with the mostremarkable results in my family. In my humble opinion they are the best Liver Pills as well as the best general Family Medicine yet discovered. Fifty years constant use in my family, and among my negroes on the farm, should convince the most doubtful of their meritorious qualities. During the month of May, in the year 1865, while still a refugee from home. I was living in Houston county, Ga., within five miles of Marshalville. One of my neighbors, Mr. George Haslam, told me that he had ten or twelve very sick darkies on his place. Some of them had Dysentery, some Bilous Fever, and some were affected with other diseases I immediately sent an order to Dr. Calboun for one dozen boxes of his liver Pills for Mr. Haslam. He gave them to the sick ones, and says that in one week's time they were all restored to health. He afterwards bought a full gross of them, and he could not be induced to be without them. If Mr. Halsam still lives he will certify to the correctness of my statement. Hoping that all suffering humanily may be relieved by the use of your Calhoun Pills, I remain, Yours truly.

I am happy to say that the Calhoun Liver Pills prepared by my old friend and neighbor. Dr. E. N. Their timely use would prevent many of the malarial and typhoid fevers of the day. Respectfully, S. ROOT, Atlanta, Ga., October 7, 1884.

I certify that I have known the value of Dr. Calhoun's Liver Pills as a medicine for more than thirty years. My father used said pills as a family medicine with entire satisfaction when I was a toy. I have used them in my family, and consider them equal, if not superior, to all other liver and anti bilious pills.

Dr. E. N. Calhoun, the originator, was physician of Fulton county jail, crowded with whites and negroes, for many years. during my administration of the affairs of Fulton county, and during the time he was in charge there was not a splitary death among the prisoners. In his treatment he generally used the Calhoun pill.

The First Sign

Of falling health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most affective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the pervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Mountain City Fire company gave a barbecue at Eve's station, on the Rome railroad, Thursday. In addition to the firemen and their friends, a large number of ladies and children were present. The meats and Brunswick stew were highly praised by all present. A platform was erected, and dancing was indulged in by the young people. There was also target shooting and other amusements.
